City Council May Pass Salary Ordinance Over Mayor's Veto

STRANGULATION CAUSED DEATH OF BABY BOY FOUND IN LOCAL MILL YARD CANAL

"Murder," commented Judge Thomas J. Enright after reviewing the result of the autopsy performed yesterday afternoon by Dr. Frank Bulkeley of Ayer on the body of the baby boy which was found in the canal in the Hamilton mill yard.

The body of the infant was found by workmen in the mill yard about 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and was later removed to the undertaking parlors of J. F. O'Donnell and Sons, where Dr. Bulkeley, acting medical examiner in the absence of Dr. T. B. Smith, pronounced death due to strangulation. As the result of a more thorough examination yesterday, the following report was submitted to the police authorities this morning:

"The body was that of full term, fully developed baby boy at or about term. The baby was born alive and breathed. Within a very short time of birth, some constricting band was placed about the neck and drawn tight. There was no mark of a knot. Death occurred very soon after birth, probably within a few minutes. The cut on the hip was post mortem and probably incidental to immersion. The baby was dead when placed in the canal."

The matter, so far as the police are concerned, remains a mystery, and although a special detail has been working on the case, the responsible party or parties have not been found.

NO IMMEDIATE MILL STRIKE

Pres. McMahon of U. T. W. to Await Result of Conference at Fall River

To "Play the Game" Pending Negotiations Between Rival Union and Mill Men

Fight for Union Control Hinges on Attitude of Unorganized Workers

FALL RIVER, March 20.—There will be no immediate strike of the cotton textile operatives of this city controlled by the United Textile Workers of America, who have demanded a wage increase of 25 per cent from the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Fall River. Pending decision of the manufacturers on the demand of the Fall River Textile Council, a rival union organization for a wage increase of 15 per cent, President Thomas F. McMahon of the U. T. W. announced last night that he would withhold a strike call, and "play the game" with the manufacturers and textile council, seeking meantime to gain control of the union forces in the city.

Today interest centered in the negotiations between textile council and manufacturers. The council was to meet tonight to consider a proposal made yesterday by the manufacturers that outside representatives be admitted to a conference Friday between the council and the Manufacturers' Association to consider the wage demand.

Proposal An Innovation

This proposal, said to be an innovation in textile wage conferences here, was made by S. E. Smith, secretary of the executive committee of the Cotton

NO SIGNS OF SPRING FRESHET CONDITIONS

Freshet conditions at the Pawtucket dam are not yet in order.

Although the river waters have risen about six inches during the past week, the registration this morning on the official measurement line at Pawtucket dam showed no higher rise of the down-coming waters. The cold weather late yesterday and last night, stopped melting conditions that were the rule during the past two or three days, and today little of the up-river ice was softening up owing to the continuance of the cold atmospheric conditions.

The present condition of melting and freezing in succession from day to day, is just right for the proper carrying away of excess water, locks and canals engineers say. No freshet conditions are apparent anywhere along the upper Merrimack at the present time.

SALTED HUMAN FLESH SOLD AS FOOD IN RUSSIA

DENVER, Colo., March 20.—Hamilton Hall, New York Journalist and lecturer, touring the west in the interests of America's joining the League of Nations, in an address here last night said Dr. Naumen, the Norwegian explorer, had told him personally, and repeated his statement on the floor of the League of Nations, that salted human flesh had been sold as food in the markets of Russia.

"Russia is following Austria over the brink of catastrophe," Mr. Hall added. "Then comes Italy and France, and England is not so far behind. The most profound thinkers in every country united in the statement that the situation in Europe is worse today than at any time since the armistice. Civilization virtually is at stake."

TROLLEY CARS COLLIDE, 50 HURT

40 Persons Rushed to Hospital After Head-on Collision in East Springfield

Officials Say Operator of One-Man Car Disregarded Block Signal

SPRINGFIELD, March 20.—Fifty persons were injured, but only one seriously, in a head-on collision of trolley cars in East Springfield this morning. Though upward of 40 persons were taken to hospitals and others received medical attention at the Westinghouse plant, near the scene of the accident, most of those treated were able to go home within a short time.

The accident, according to officials of the Springfield Street Railway Co., was due to disregard of block signal set against him by W. L. Caron, operator of a one-man car which contained only two passengers. At the foot of an incline the car crashed into another in which were about 50 passengers. The passengers were mainly employees of local factories coming from their homes in Ludlow and the easterly part of this city.

The vestibule of both cars were demolished and the ends telescoped for several feet. Police and hospital ambulances were rushed to the scene of the accident.

Municipal Council to Act on Mayor's Veto of Salary Ordinance at Tonight's Meeting

Passage of Ordinance Over Mayor's Veto Presaged at City Hall—Measure Was Vetoed by Mayor Yesterday Afternoon—Assessors Send Out Questionnaires Relative to Auto Ownership—Other City Hall News

That the city council at this evening's meeting will pass the salary ordinance over the mayor's veto seems to be the consensus of opinion in certain departments at city hall. The argument is that the ten councilors who voted in favor of the ordinance when it was first brought before the council, will stand firm and if the matter is again brought before the council tonight, they will again vote in favor of the measure.

The salary ordinance was vetoed by Mayor Donnan yesterday afternoon on the ground of economy and now two-thirds of the council or ten votes are required to pass the measure over the mayor's veto. The councilors who voted against the ordinance at the meeting were Councilors Chadwick, Cameron, Stearns, McPadden and Hennessey. It is believed that these councilors will stand by their original vote, but those who claim to have a little inside information say that not one of the ten will change his vote.

President Gallagher of the council, who is also chairman of the committee on finance that recommended the adoption of the ordinance, stated today that he has not heard one word about the ordinance since the measure left the council and he is not in a position to predict what will happen to the ordinance at tonight's meeting.

SHARP TURN IN MURDER CASE

Report Dorothy Keenan Slain After Refusing to Aid in Plot to Blackmail Marshall

Score of Detectives Work on New Tip in Mysterious Killing of New York Model

NEW YORK, March 20.—The Dorothy Keenan murder case took a sharp turn today when the police began investigating a tip that the model had been slain after she had refused to cooperate in a plot to blackmail the mysterious "Mr. Marshall," her elderly and wealthy admirer.

A score of detectives were dispatched to check up on confidential information received by the police to the effect that despite the fact that "Mr. Marshall" was reported to have been the height of discretion in affairs of the heart, Miss Keenan had in her

STRIKE FOLLOWS RIOT IN MILL

Clubs Used by Police to Quell Disturbance in Pawtucket, R. I.

Call for Reserves Followed Refusal of Discharged Man to Leave Mill

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 20.—Clubs were used by the police today to quell a disturbance in one of the mills of the Royal Weaving Co., when a man who had been discharged refused to leave the weave room. A policeman who responded to a call from the management attempted to arrest the discharged man, but a number of other workers went to the rescue of their comrade. A call for assistance was sent in and eight more officers were sent to the mill. They succeeded in partially restoring order, but the silk weavers refused to return to their looms and leaders said there as a result 200 are now on strike. Samuel Saba, the man discharged, was charged with revelling when arraigned in the district court. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $200 for trial on March 28.

Joseph Santa who was arraigned on the charge of obstructing an officer, pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 for trial on the same date.

Several of the weavers who were charged with the police are nursing sore heads.

Four Below at Windsor

SPRINGFIELD, March 20.—Temperatures plunging down to four above zero at Windsor, Vt., and reaching an official ten above in this city, marked the arrival of the western cold wave today. The lowest unofficial temperature record received here was eight above zero. The Connecticut river rose a foot in the last 24 hours, but the cold snap is expected to check any rising tendency.

COLD RECEPTION FOR MISS SPRING

Spring is but one day away (officially), but the weather bureau has evidently not been informed of the chaotic fact.

HEARING ON PETITION RESTRAINING FURTHER PAYMENTS ON CENTRAL BRIDGE IS POSTPONED

(Special to The Sun.)

BOSTON, March 20.—Due to a fault in the first order of notice a hearing scheduled for today in the supreme judicial court of Suffolk county on the petition of Dennis E. Conners and 28 other Lowell citizens that an injunction issue against the city of Lowell restraining further payment of money to the Engineering Service and Construction Co. of Boston under a contract for the reconstruction of Central bridge, was postponed one week or until March 27.

The error in the notice was found when the case was called at 10 a. m. today before Justice Braley, who then ordered a new temporary injunction paid and received.

In addition to asking that the city be enjoined from paying any more money under the contract the petitioners also pray that a master be appointed to investigate business relations between the city and the company and that the company be ordered to return to the city money which the petitioners allege has been unlawfully ordered a new temporary injunction paid and received.

and a new order of notice to issue returnable on the 27th. The city of Lowell was represented by Solicitor J. J. O'Sullivan, the Engineering Service and Construction Co. by John M. O'Donnell and the petitioners by John H. Hackett and James F. Meagher of Boston.

ITALIAN SHIP IS SINKING

Steamer Giulia Caught in Gale That Swept North Atlantic Last Night

American Steamer Herrin Also Another Vessel Rush to Aid of Sinking Craft

NORFOLK, Va., March 20.—The Italian steamship Giulia is in a sinking condition 500 miles east of Boston, according to wireless messages received at coast guard station here. The message said the American steamer William F. Herrin, sixty miles from the Giulia when it picked up the distress call was rushing to her assistance, as was also an unidentified shipping board steamer.

The condition of the Giulia was believed by coast guard officials to be dangerous. She was caught in the gale which swept the North Atlantic coast last night at about the same point where the Italian steamer Montecenisio went down with all hands several weeks ago.

The weather bureau predicts a rise in temperature—12 below at Greenville, Me.

BOSTON, March 20.—Winter blew in from the west on the wings of a 25-mile northwest wind last night, and sent the temperature in this city down from a maximum of 17 yesterday to a minimum of 11 early today. In northern New England the cold was more severe, Greenville, Me., reporting 12 below, the lowest official figure in this district. It was zero at Northfield, Vt., and Burlington, Vt.

The weather bureau looked for a slight rise in temperature during the day and considerable warmer weather tomorrow, with a storm developing to the westward.

ENFORCE LAW AGAINST ALL

Atty. Gen. Daugherty Calls
For Enforcement of Law
Against All Classes

Conscientious Effort to Enforce Laws Will Break
Refusal to Obey Law

MIAMI, Fla., March 20.—Enforcement of law equally against all classes today stands out as a factor on which much depends towards advancement of the nation, according to Attorney General Daugherty, who last night addressed the Florida Bar association here through a letter.

"Conscientious and determined effort to enforce laws," he wrote will finally break down "stubborn refusal to obey the law," which, he continued, might temporarily prevent universal and perfect enforcement.

The laws, he said, should be enforced against the "rich and the so-called poor," "against the majority and against the minority," "and everywhere in the land, or upon the sea, wherever the courts shall hold that governmental jurisdiction extends."

Every legal and constitutional act passed by congress and every final decree of the courts, he continued is enforceable in this country.

Mr. Daugherty pledged his office and urged co-operation of the lawyers in sustaining power and influence "which guarantees the continuance of constitutional government which now, more than ever, is necessary and is now, more than ever, being recognized as the ideal government of any God-fearing and God-recognizing people."

IRISH REBELS APPEAL FOR ARMS FROM U. S.
DUBLIN, March 20. (By the Associated Press.)—A letter purported to have been written by Liam Lynch, republican army leader, to Joseph McGarrity, of Philadelphia, urging the vital importance of "a consignment of arms arriving as soon as possible," was made public today by the Free State government.

"One piece of small artillery in a few weeks would be worth 20 pieces arriving in a couple of months," Lynch was said to have written. "Time is on the side of the enemy. We want to make the most of the coming few months. If it is at all possible to have such here at once, nothing should prevent it. We could turn the scale here immediately and also end the war quickly, if this arrived."

To Investigate Merrimack

and the matter of sewerage and sewage disposal in the valley of the river in the cities of Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport and in the towns of Dracut, Tyngsboro, Chelmsford, Billerica, Tewksbury, Andover, North Andover, Melrose, Groveland, West Newbury, Merrimack, Amesbury, and Salisbury.

At the hearing today Senator Wadleigh said that every city and town along the river from its source in New Hampshire, dump their sewage into the water. He said there are all kinds of odors coming from it and that these odors are so bad in some places that the people have to close their windows down. He further stated that the department of public health with all its engineering facilities would be able to make a complete investigation. The resolve provided, he said, that the department may spend $20,000 for the investigation. He also stated that several engineers have told him that it would probably only cost between $12,000 and $15,000. There is a population of 426,000 in the valley that would be affected and that this would amount to between 3 and 3 1/2 cents a person.

N. J. Goldnough, an engineer in the department of health, favored the resolve. He said that there was a serious nuisance from the sewage in the Concord river in Lowell, and this nuisance has been growing constantly worse for the last twenty years in the Merrimack river. He stated that the cost to settle the whole problem would be almost prohibitive, but that this investigation would go a long way towards relieving the situation.

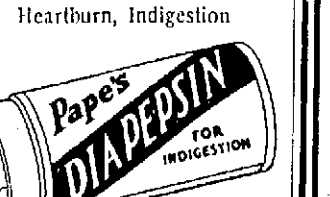

Representative M. S. Donaldson of Brockton said that something must be done or an epidemic is liable to break out at any time. Mr. Donaldson is a member of the committee on public health.

Louis C. Lawton, city engineer of Haverhill, and Representatives McCormick and Dow of Methuen, also spoke in favor of the measure.

Carney Gets House of Correction Sentence

police officers were walking up Central street when their attention was attracted to a man endeavoring to dispose of a silver flask. Failing to satisfactorily answer their questioning, he was taken to the police station on suspicion. He gave a rooming house number to Summer street, and when the authorities investigated they found a black leather bag with the initials "K," containing a pair of shoes, valued at $5 each, two pairs of pajamas, valued at $5 each, a toilet set, valued at $3, a razor, valued at $5 and several other articles of minor value. A $5 bill was also found on his person and when asked where he got it, he replied that he earned it. His landlady later told the police she had loaned him $7 the day before and the $5 then in his possession was probably the balance. Carney pleaded guilty this morning.

below-zero points in the country towns about Lowell, the "official" at the locks and Canals was just 20 degrees, but it seemed much colder. No night of the present season was actually colder. It seemed, for the winds sweeping straight out from the old northwest reached gale force and chilled everyone bound for home and snuggled last evening to the innermost marrow.

The gale had not receded this morning and everybody walking to work found it much colder than the downtown glasses registered. At eight o'clock, the large glass registered 18 above, but the breeze was cold enough to tingle the ears, and hands and bite all noses in the usual way. Demands for coal and coke were the rule today, only more so. Up to yesterday the "rush" had dropped at some coal stations, but the parade started early today and fuel is the thing until this frigid blast lets down.

Moderate temperatures will not prevail until tomorrow, the weather indications show. It will be cloudy Wednesday, too, with the northwest gales diminishing and becoming southeasterly.

Probably rain or snow will come along by tomorrow night and Thursday will also be unsettled. It is predicted now. Much warmer weather is coming for the latter part of the week, with more southerly winds.

City Solicitor O'Sullivan went to Boston this morning, to request the civil service commission for an extension of time for the appointment of a custodian for the Auditorium building. The time limit set by the civil service commission for the appointment of a custodian was March 22, but owing to the fact that Mayor Donovan has brought charges against Collin MacKenzie, the present custodian, whose name appears in third place on the list, the trustees wish for more time to look into the matter.

Playground Supervisors
As far as is known there will be no appointment of new playground supervisors this year, for the forty or more supervisors who were on duty last summer on the various playgrounds of the city have already signified their willingness to serve again this year.

Last December there was an examination held for playground supervisors and 50 candidates successfully passed the test. It seems that a great many of the candidates have been bringing pressure to bear upon the superintendent of parks for appointment, but the latter wishes it known that the appointments are in the hands of the park board, and that no appointment is being contemplated this year.

What She Saw in the Looking-glass

By Marion Jones

Lucile would have been a lovely girl, a real beauty, but alas! her complexion was bad, her face was covered with unsightly pimples, and at dances the young men passed her by for girls with smooth, velvety skins. Though they were not endowed by Nature with a fairer form or lovelier face, were it not for the disfiguring blotches. She spoke of her distress to the old family physician, who gave her a simple cooling lotion, and said: "No outward application will cure you, what you need is a good blood purifier, something to tone up a sluggish liver, and I am glad to recommend a splendid herbal remedy I have used in my practice for many years. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I knew Dr. R. V. Pierce and can assure you that his remedy is a purely vegetable one, as I have analyzed it. Come back to me in a month, dear child."

With renewed hope Lucile followed his advice. Gradually her complexion cleared, the pimples disappeared and everyone looked with surprise and ad-

The real secret of foot comfort

IT'S all in the way the shoe is fashioned. The Arnold Glove-Grip looks like any high-grade, well-designed and stylish shoe. But inside, curving up snugly against the instep, it follows the natural lines of the foot, gently but firmly gripping and holding up the arch. Lacing a Glove-Grip Shoe raises the arch instead of pushing it down. This is the real secret of foot comfort and it can be had only in Arnold Glove-Grip Shoes, without the sacrifice of good looks.

Both men's and women's styles in a variety of the latest leathers and shapes. The "Arch-Maid," illustrated below, is one of the popular styles for women. Its shapely lines, trim toe and well-proportioned heel of all-leather make it particularly appropriate for street-wear.

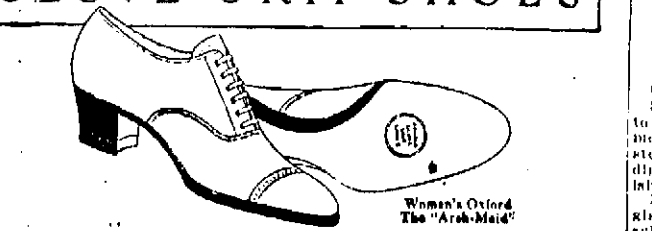

Come in and look over the styles. Try on a pair. There is no obligation to buy—just feel that wonderful sensation of foot ease.

GRAFT IN PRIVATE BUSINESS A FELONY

BOSTON, March 20.—The legislature was asked today to make graft in private business a felony punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both. The petition was signed by a hundred firms prominent in various business activities.

One who corruptly gives or offers to any servant, agent or other employee a gift or gratuity with intent to influence his action with relation to his employer or master, or one who requests or accepts a gift of gratuity under those conditions would be held guilty of violation under the proposed law. Fines would range from $10 to $500 and imprisonment might be for a maximum of one year.

"A positive revelation in unmarred melody"

In appearance, a Columbia New Process Record resembles practically every other disc record. But, play this record on any phonograph and you will be amazed at the superb smoothness of outpouring melody.

In the brief interval before the music commences, you may detect the needle faintly whispering. Compare this with the strident scratch that greets you on other records. At the very first note of the prelude even this almost imperceptible sound dissolves. Compare this with the insistent scrape that intrudes itself through the music on other records.

This surface quietness that lets your ears, unhindered, hear the infinite variety of delicate shadings of the singer's voice, that translates for you the musician's sensitive touch into the glow of poetic imagination, is unparalleled in phonographic reproduction.

As an example of this "unmarred melody," go to any Columbia shop and ask to hear Al Jolson singing his latest, "Wanita," record A-3812. The music is jolly and the words infectious, and admirers of Jolson's stage singing will especially appreciate the perfect reproduction of this clever actor's tone and expression. On the other side is another hilarious treat—Frank Crumit singing "Jimbo Jambo." It is like hearing Crumit himself.

Columbia's process of making records with a hard, durable core, overlaid with a new surface so marvelously smooth that the needle travels over it practically without friction, pronounced the death sentence on obnoxious scratch and scrape. The process is patented. No one else can make a record at all similar.

HEARD WHILE SILENT

Speakers Talk—Voices Are Broadcast Later Through Use of Pallophotophone

Senator Phil E. Ruster is addressing the radio audience of WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., on the evils of delaying important legislation by prolonging debate.

At the same time Senator Ruster is talking quietly in his easy chair at home, with never a thought on this speech or the thousands who are listening to it. He happened to have made his address two or three weeks ago into a curious instrument which the operator called a pallophotophone. But to those who are listening, and to many who know the senator, the speech comes to them just as though it was spoken directly and in the same room.

Senator Ruster is in Washington. But his speech is being broadcast from Schenectady.

This double paradox of his speaking and his absence from the source of his speech becomes possible through use of the pallophotophone. Charles A. Hoxie of the General Electric laboratories perfected it.

Master Record Made

Besides accomplishing this feat, the pallophotophone broadcasts the voice of the speaker in clearer tones than has ever been sent by radio. It produces what may be termed a "master record" of a series of sounds which may be broadcast from it at any later time or occasion desired.

As the speaker talks into the machine, his voice causes a diaphragm to vibrate. To this is attached a tiny mirror, smaller than a pinhead. Vibration of the diaphragm causes the mirror to flicker, reflecting its oscillating beam of light upon a moving photographic film.

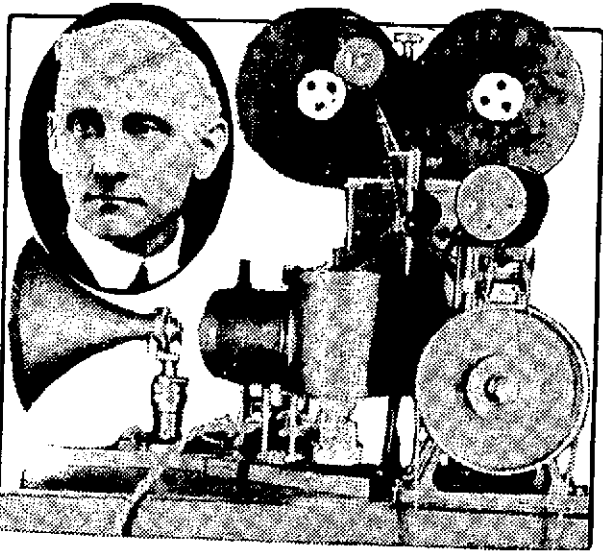

This is how the human voice is recorded as on a movie film, with its various shades of tone and speech. When that is done, the speaker may forget about his part. The rest remains for the broadcasting operator.

Speech Is Reproduced

At the broadcasting station, the pallophotophone is set up before a highly sensitive microphone transmitter, where it repeats the speech spoken into it.

In reproducing, the film is passed before a strong ray of light and the zigzag sound waves photographed on it, create electric waves which pass through an arrangement of vacuum tubes and produce the original sounds spoken into the machine.

The principle employed by this instrument is now being adapted to movie broadcasting, whereby both voice and action are recorded and sent out at the same time. This latest development is only in its embryo stage, and still that is perfected the pallophotophone will record the speeches of our national leaders to broadcast them to the public sometime later.

THE TEXTILE CRISIS

Hardly had one great textile strike in the mills of New England been declared off when another is under consideration. In this case as formerly, Fall River is the storm centre and the leaders are discussing a walk-out to enforce a demand for an increase of 15 per cent. We do not think the demand is at all unreasonable; and now that the manufacturers have agreed to meet the local council representing their own operatives, a settlement is likely to be reached.

But should the conference fail, it would still be a mistake to strike at this juncture. The resources of diplomacy have not yet been exhausted; and for the present, they can be more advantageously employed while the operatives are at work than if they were all idle.

It is true that the textile industries are on the eve of a business boom; and it is but fair to assume that the operatives should have some share of the profits. The cost of living has gone up quite considerably since the republican tariff bill took effect. If we consider only the price of coal and sugar, it will indicate what the working people have to contend with in meeting the increased cost of living. Of course, the mills have also suffered from the shortage in fuel although not nearly so much in proportion as the operatives. There is some ground for the belief that the mills resent the dictation of national organizers and that they would be more inclined to make concessions to committees from their own employees. It may be this idea that has led to a reported contest for control of the situation between the Fall River Textile council and the United Textile Workers of America, of which Thomas F. McMahon is the national president. If there is to be a strike, any lack of harmony would be fatal. But we surmise that the points of difference will be satisfactorily arranged before final action is taken. Fall River is chosen as the battle ground for the settlement of the wage question in the other textile cities of New England and what the mills do there, will probably be followed by those of the other cities.

It is to be regretted that conflicts of this kind are necessary in order to secure an equitable wage agreement between the mills and their employees. The operatives have to fight the battle without assistance. There is no government agency to step in and maintain the status quo until such times as an investigation could show whether the demands of the operatives are such as the mills can afford to grant at this particular time. We have a State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation but its powers are so restricted that it can accomplish but little in maintaining industrial peace. This board cannot interfere unless its services are sought by both sides. In this respect there is great need for a change that would authorize the board to order the suspension of a strike or lock-out until such times as an investigation into the financial condition of the company concerned could be made. Such a law has worked well in Canada and there is no reason why it should not be equally effective in promoting industrial peace on this side of the border.

DANCE HALL ABUSES

Already The Sun has referred to the evidence found in the vicinity of certain dance halls in Lowell, showing that bootleggers are active in connection with some of these places. The arrest of a young man by federal officers, on the charge of illegally possessing a pint of whiskey at a dance, is the first step for the suppression of this evil. The local police have been notified and doubtless the police women have given the matter serious attention.

It is claimed that bootleggers enter the dance halls with bottles of whiskey in their possession and that they endeavor to dispose of their stock to parties with whom they come in contact during the evening. For the purpose of completing the sale and "delivering the goods," they leave the hall, procuring "pass out" checks, which give them the privilege of returning without extra charge. We have reason to believe that a rule providing that persons leaving a dance hall will have to pay full price before returning, would go far to curb this growing evil.

It should be said that the managers of the dance halls are in no way responsible for this invasion of their social functions by the bootleggers.

THE COAL PROTESTING LAW

In a list of some 121 laws which Frank W. Mendell, former republican floor leader of the house of representatives, proudly credits to the sixty-seventh congress, he enumerates "acts to prevent profiteering in coal and providing a coal fact-finding commission." Mr. Mendell's announcement, that the republican congress enacted a bill to curb profiteering in coal will be interesting information to many thousands of people in New York, New England and other sections of the north and east where the departing winter has been one of exceptional severity.

Those thousands have had no evidence that a statute designed to protect them against extortionate prices and practices was in existence. They have suffered hardships for want of coal most of the time since November and have paid all the way from 215 per cent to 226 a ton for coal when it was chairman of the Southern Pacific's executive board.

He expects particularly heavy traffic from crops move to market in the autumn. Wise business men will have a car shortage then. Heavy freight movement means a bright prosperity outlook for all of us. They save. Save for the rainy day. Prosperity never lasts forever. They're always followed by depression.

We are appalled by Princeton House of the high school that arithmetic is taught in the commercial course and not in the other courses. Last September the course in arithmetic was strengthened so that it is now required as a full course for all first year commercial pupils; store arithmetic is required of all third year businessmen pupils; and business mathematics is a required fourth year subject for all commercial pupils. That is a much needed improvement over the formerly restricted arithmetic to a half course in the second year.

Just as unjust, for better or worse, Mayor Donovan has voted the salary ordinance. In accordance with the policy of retrenchment he has adopted he could not do anything different. In stating his reasons for protesting against the ordinance the mayor leaves little unsaid. He certainly puts the whole matter quite forcibly.

If local rowdies are attempting to kidnap young girls who may be foolish enough to accept invitations to ride or who travel alone in out of the way places, it is time for the police to round them up. The sale of moonshine is at the bottom of this business in most cases; and that too, should be suppressed by the police.

A Thought

Wickedness is a wonderfully diligent architect of misery, of shame, accompanied with terror, and commotion, and remorse, and endless perturbation.—Mistach.

Couldn't Wiggle Out

"That woman is the most awful person I ever saw," said the ill-mannered man to his neighbor. "What body is my wife?" replied the neighbor. "I am wrong," said the m. m. m. "Who is a good actress struggling with a rotten part? I wonder what fool wrote it." "Unfortunately, I am the author," said the neighbor smiling.

Cause of Interest

A man who is not usually a reader of fiction was found to be absorbed in "If Winter Comes," and to be reading it. When asked the cause of this obsession, he first looked furtively around the room to assure himself that no one was within earshot. Then he said solemnly: "It interests me because I married a Mabel."

That Settled It

A man had been in a public telephone box for half an hour. He appeared to be very bored, and, though he held the receiver to his ear, he made no attempt to speak. At last one of the crowd outside, exasperated with waiting, opened the door and asked, politely: "Are you speaking to anybody?" The silent one replied: "Yes, I am speaking to my wife."

She Proved It

"Well," said Mrs. Harry, "I do not like the Puccini." "Why?" inquired her husband. "Why do you not like them?" "I don't like them." "But, my dear," Mr. Harry persisted. "I think they are very unusual people." "Unusual? What makes you say that?" "Well, indeed, they are unusual. Even their neighbors are satisfied with the way they are bringing up their children."

Capital Jokes

U. S. Representative Don Johnson from Kentucky, tells the following as his favorite story: Once on a time I had recommended a young man for appointment under civil service. The bureau chief said at first that while the young man's experience seemed to be considerable, he was not enough. When the young man passed the examination at the head of the list, the bureau chief wrote to me that he thought the candidate's ability was adequate, but his experience was insufficient. I wrote him that he could not be a judge I knew down south. The judge was not deeply learned and at one time he submitted a written opinion on a case and asked him what he thought of it. The judge replied: "Well, judge, I'd say that if your opinion is right, then your reasons are wrong, and if your reasons are right, then your opinion is wrong."

"The Kiss"

Before you kissed me, only winds of heaven
Had kissed me, and the tenderness of New you have come, how can I care for kisses
Like theirs again?

I sought the sea, she sent her winds
to meet me.
They sang about me, singing of the
I turned my head away to keep still lovely
Your kiss upon my mouth.

And swift, sweet rains of shining April
weather
Found not my lips where living kisses
I heard my head best they put out my glory.
As rain puts out a star.

FORT PIERCE, FLA., TO WELCOME HARDING

FORT PIERCE, Fla., March 20.—This thriving little city in the St. Johns grapefruit district was abuzz today with a expectation of entertaining President Harding and his vacation party. The presidential party passed by Fort Pierce on the cruise down the Indian River, ten days ago and there was great disappointment for elaborate plans had been made for the entertainment of President and Mrs. Harding and the course of the Fort Pierce golf and country club had been gone over with a very careful eye.

The president then conferred the favor of his presence on Vero, a rival town 14 miles north of here, where lives a large Ohio colony. Tentative plans of the president today, however, call for a stop here, and then a resumption of the cruise towards St. Augustine.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Since the first of January a series of 10 lectures on subjects of great interest to teachers and students and to many others who have any desire to learn, have been given at the Lowell Normal school by educators from various sections of the state. Each lecturer is an expert in his line, and while some of their talks were rather technical, they were all interesting. These lectures are open to the public but as they come at 2:15 in the afternoon, there are few who are able to attend. Beginning tomorrow a new series will be started that is of the greatest importance to educators. The subject is "Adapting the curriculum to changing social needs," and the lecturers are all well-known for their school work. It is too bad that the teachers of Lowell have no old and young, cannot hear these lectures as they are just as important to them as to the girls who are soon to become teachers. Such lectures would aid them in keeping up to modern methods of teaching and keep them out of the ruts.

It does not seem that it can be two years since James P. Mikella died, but time passes quickly and tomorrow his family will have a requiem mass celebrated in observance of the second anniversary of his death. His mother mourned his loss and has ever kept his memory green as a loving son and brother.

I regret the fact that the name of Mrs. Margaret McDonough-Maguire was omitted from the Sun's Monday night account of the Sun's Monday night concert in the Memorial Auditorium. To be sure it was inadvertent for the popular and talented soloist deserves unsolicited praise for her contributions. "Irish Eyes of Blue," and "Mother Macbride," which she rendered in a highly creditable and artistic manner. Mrs. Maguire, whose husband is a well-known theatrical thousands of local music lovers, is a soloist of rare ability and her Sunday night selections, especially "Mother Macbride," only added to her laurels as a soloist.

It is not alone within the fraternities to which Andrew Livingstone belonged that his passing will bring pangs of regret. Mr. Livingstone had won the respect of all classes of citizens with whom he came in contact during his 42 years of residence here. He was pre-eminently a devoted member of the Scottish Rite and it was the celebrations in honor of Robert Burns, the immortal bard of Scotland, Mr. Livingstone was an ardent worker. It is said that he could repeat a great many of Burns' poems from memory and he was proud of this lyric genius that brought such honor to the name of Scotland and her devoted people.

JAPAN WILL NOT CHANGE PRESENT LAWS

TOKIO, Feb. 26. There is no immediate prospect of the government liberalizing the Japanese land laws, and the suggested purchase of perpetual leases held by foreigners in Yokohama does not figure in the government program.

"The matter of further liberalizing the land laws of Japan," frequently comes up for discussion among foreign office officials," said Mr. Sagai, head of the consular department of the foreign office. "And there is a desire in the foreign office to see the existing act further enlarged and promulgated, but many other departments of the government are interested, and the complexities of the question continue to delay it."

As for the purchase of the perpetual leaseholds, the same policy as is now in force will be continued, namely, the buying in of these leaseholds as they come upon the market.

"It may be that the business depression will offer a good chance to secure more of these leaseholds, and perhaps that is the reason some people appear to believe the government is going to make some special effort in the matter. There is, of course, no idea of attempting the condemnation of the leaseholds."

LITERARY CIRCLE OF C. M. A. C. MEETS

The first in a series of lectures under the auspices of the Literary Circle of the C.M.A.C. took place last evening in the assembly hall of the organization in Pawtucket street. The meeting was opened at 8 o'clock by Leon Lamoureux, president of the circle, and the speaker was William Trotter, a local newspaper man, who was formerly connected with the American City Bureau, and his topic was "The Future of our Cities." Mr. Trotter spoke at length on his experiences as a member of the American City Bureau in organizing chambers of commerce in this country and Canada and told what is being done in other cities to promote the interest of their residents.

BOSTON WOMAN KILLED BY TROLLEY CAR

BOSTON, March 20.—Mrs. Myra M. Van Arsdale, 48, of 109 Peterborough street, Back Bay, died at the Massachusetts General hospital last night from injuries she sustained shortly after 6 o'clock when she was struck by a street car with a trailer attached, as it was leaving the subway at the Public Garden.

The woman was dragged about 35 feet before the motorman of the car, S. G. Chandler, could apply the emergency brakes and bring the heavy car to a stop.

There were about a score of persons standing on the platform at the time the accident occurred and great excitement prevailed among them, several women almost collapsing.

According to the report made to the police by the motorman, the woman stepped in front of the car as it emerged from the subway just as it reached the platform at the top of the incline.

The car was a Cypress street-huntington avenue car outpand and was fully well filled with passengers. As far as he could observe, the woman did not note the approach of the car. He did everything possible to avoid the accident, he claimed.

When taken from under the forward trucks of the car, Mrs. Van Arsdale was carried to the rooms of the Women's Educational Union at 264 Boylston street.

Dr. R. H. Miller of 402 Marlborough street was summoned. He ordered her removed to the Massachusetts General hospital and she was taken there in an ambulance of the Jack Bay station, dying a short time after arrival.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WOMEN READERS OF THIS PAPER

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Your health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

IN JUAREZ
EL PASO.

On the Mexican side of the Rio Grande
Is Juarez.
And there, wherever you chance to stand,
A bar is.

Both sides of the street, four sides of a square.
Whenever you look, a bar is there.
And the sounds of revelry fill the air in Juarez.

But the click of the chips is heard no more
In Juarez
You gamble not as you did of yore.
After is.

The lucky time when you played roulette;
But still on the ponies a guy can bet.
No model city, at least as yet, is Juarez.

El Paso's lively and full of pen,
Not Juarez;
The Mexicans move with a slower step
In Juarez.

Their nondescript soldiers slouch along
Unburdened through the dark-skinned throng.
And life is a sort of a slumber song in Juarez.

They fight the chickens and fight the bull
In Juarez.
And these aren't all of the fights they fight.
In Juarez;
For the blood of the Mexican swains is hot.

And a rival at times is knifed or shot.
Though it doesn't happen in awful lot.
In Juarez.
Yet in the main they are getting on
In Juarez.
Beneath the shadow of Obregon
In Juarez;
And they work at times, but they mostly play.

In a careless, happy-go-lucky way,
Quite unprogressive, but blithe and zany.
In Juarez.

"An educated man is not merely a person with a large amount of knowledge in his head, but one who is competent to meet all the situations of life, even beginning with being able to properly dress himself," he declared. "The kind of education that was here say 300 years ago," he said, "was very much simpler than what we have now. The Indian children acquired an education in the natural way. There was not much complexity about it. An Indian boy was not born with the ability to shoot a bow and arrow. He had to learn it. There was no school, no correspondence courses for learning how to shoot a bow and arrow. The boy just watched what the man did, and the girls watched what the women did. In this way they learned. And there were traditions of the past. The Indian boys did not have examinations by listening to the men who knew them. And they learned their morality that way. Morality is custom. They learned the life of the tribe by living the life of the tribe. You see, it was social. That is, it was always concerned with the community process. They learned by experience. Nobody ever learned anything except by experience, but sometimes books are an experience.

"Of course education today is different from that Indian education. Our life is vastly more complex than that life was. One of the difficulties of our modern education is that society is so complex, that everything has to be done by specialists. We leave it to specialists. We are developing in Chicago a most delightful form of life, in which we do not have to do anything. Milk is no longer something that comes from a cow. It is something that comes by pressing a button.

"There is a second respect in which education is extraordinarily more complex than it was for the Indian, and that is by an accumulation of intellectual material. We have forgotten, often, what a book is. A book is simply an accumulation of experiences of the past. Now the accumulation of experience of the past is so vast that a lifetime is inadequate for one to acquire it. But the process is precisely the same thing as with an Indian boy. It is simply living the social life.

"A third respect in which our modern life is so different, is that the artistic skills have so enormously increased. All the Indians shared the artistic experience of the group. But today what a vast range of the experiences of beauty is ours! It is very difficult even to appreciate the finer expressions of beauty. We do not live in one world, as the Indians did. Our children grow up in a great many groups, with different sets of ideals. It is very difficult to develop social living when you are living in various groups and responding to various social demands.

FINAL GINNING REPORT OF SEASON

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The American cotton crop of 1922 was placed at 2,761,517 equivalent 500-pound bales by the census bureau today, in its final ginning report of the season. The department of agriculture estimated the crop at 2,941,000 bales last December.

The number of running bales reported by the census bureau was 2,729,048, including 172,182 round bales counted as half bales; 22,750 bales of American-Egyptian; 5125 bales of sea island; and 8861 bales which ginners estimated would be turned out after the March canvass.

The 1922 crop by states in equivalent 500-pound bales follows: Alabama, 819,870; Arizona, 44,132; Arkansas, 1,010,425; California, 23,475; Florida, 27,824; Georgia, 735,571; Louisiana, 345,407; Mississippi, 955,757; Missouri, 139,681; North Carolina, 575,907; Oklahoma, 637,002; South Carolina, 517,601; Tennessee, 385,560; Texas, 2,125,752; Virginia, 27,011; all other states, 19,544.

The average gross weight of bales of the 1922 crop is 261.7 pounds, compared with 268.3 pounds for 1921, and 266.4 for 1920.

The number of ginneries operated for the 1922 crop was 16,418 compared with 16,192 for the 1921 crop.

VESPER GUILD HELD PLEASANT PARTY

The Vesper Guild of the Sacred Heart parish held a pleasant party on St. Patrick's night at the home of Miss Mac Cowell at 22 London street.

The house was decorated for the occasion and the dining-room was especially pleasing, a table in the center being laden with dainties and with a green bundle from which each guest drew an appropriate favor. Games were played during the evening and a buffet luncheon was served to the many guests. After the luncheon a musical entertainment was given by members of the party, as follows: Vocal solos by Miss Kathleen Jennings, Miss May E. Burke and Miss Lucy Sharkey; readings, Miss Katherine Kenney; piano solos, Misses J. Burke and Sadie Connolly; Irish Jigs, Miss Lucy Sharkey.

The committee in charge of the affair was Miss Mae M. Crowell, Miss Anna Bradley, Miss Margaret M. Connolly and Miss Kathleen McLean.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the two nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight. "Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Adv.

THROWS DOWN GAUNTLET TO CAPITALISM

LONDON, March 20. (By the Associated Press).—Socialism throws down the gauntlet to capitalism in the house of commons tonight when Philip Snowden, one of the leaders of the Independent labor party, puts a motion denouncing "the capitalist system" as a failure and proposing that legislation be directed towards its gradual supersession "by an industrial and social order, based upon public ownerships and democratic control of the instruments of production and distribution."

Inasmuch as the motion will not be submitted until 5.15 o'clock and as the discussion will presumably end at 11 under the rule applying to a private member's business, there will not be much time for a solution of the problems involved. It is therefore uncertain whether the motion will go to a division.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Man's chief beast of burden—the horse—has decreased in numbers in the world at large about 11 per cent in the last 10 years.

Figures made public by the department of agriculture showed a falling off in 85 countries from 116,500,000 to 103,550,000.

LUMBERJACK BEATEN AND ROBBED OF $355

BOSTON, March 20.—Nicholas Butler, a Nova Scotia lumberjack who came down from the Maine woods to see the sights of the city was in a hospital in Somerville today recovering from the effects of blows on the head received when two men robbed him of a roll of $355 early today. He told the police he had escorted a waitress in a Charlestown restaurant to her home in Somerville and that while they were talking on the doorstep two men came up and attacked him, knocking him unconscious.

HEARING IN HOUSE OF DAVID SUIT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 20.—Hearing of the suit of John W. Hansell against the Israelite House of David, a religious colony of Benton Harbor in which Hansell seeks to recover property and pay for his labor valued at $30,000, proceeded in Federal court here today. Judge John E. Sater having declined to consider a motion by the House of David attorney that the case be heard by an ecclesiastical court. Another motion seeking a jury trial was likewise ruled out.

EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW WHAT AUTHORITIES HAVE LEARNED ABOUT PYORRHEA

Much has been said in public print, about the strange disease Pyorrhea. Some of this supposed information has been misleading; a great deal of it has been superficial and most of it only half true.

The result is a distressing ignorance on the part of the public, about the cause, prevention and cure of the disease.

The most important fact to bear in mind is this: Nothing on earth will overcome established Pyorrhea except dental surgery. Have no faith in any promises to the contrary—they are positively and absolutely false. When pus begins to ooze from the gums at the base of the teeth, the disease is firmly established, and the quicker you are in a dental chair, the better.

Can Pyorrhea be prevented without the aid of a dentist, before it becomes established? In most cases—No—for the following reason: Whenever a tooth is out of alignment, it receives too much pressure, or too little, and will slowly loosen. This loosening irritates the gums and allows bacteria to settle between the gum and the tooth, out of reach of the toothbrush or a proper antiseptic.

The one and only safe thing to do therefore is to have regular dental inspection for the purpose of correcting mechanical imperfections of the teeth.

But, given this regular dental inspection and mechanical corrections, can Pyorrhea be prevented or held in check? Yes, thanks to a recent step forward in the field of antiseptics—it can be.

Pyorrhea is a condition produced by bacterial infection. The human mouth constantly harbors millions of bacteria, seeking an inaccessible retreat in which to colonize and multiply. If the mouth can be thoroughly disinfected by a powerful antiseptic, this colonization and growth of bacteria cannot take place. The problem then is to find an antiseptic powerful enough to really kill bacteria, that can be used freely and safely in the mouth.

A perfected form of the famous World War discovery, the Carrel-Bakin Solution, at last places such an antiseptic in the hands of the public. It is called Zonite.

Zonite is non-poisonous and non-irritating. In the presence of saliva it has the germicidal power of pure carbolic acid. It has fifty-six times the power of peroxide. It has a hundred times the power of so-called mild antiseptics that are only pleasant-tasting mouth washes.

In recent tests the saliva of Pyorrhea patients reeking with bacteria was subjected to a solution of one part Zonite to fifty parts water. In one minute all germs were killed.

BOYS' SCHOOL GOLF TEAMS WANT GOLF TEAMS

Several boys of the high school have requested Mr. James E. Conway, faculty manager of athletics, to start a golf team this year. Among those who are leading the campaign for such a team this year are Marshall Forrest and Charles Grasse, Jr., both of which are members of the team at the local golf clubs. Mr. Conway believes that if such a team is formed that it should be an informal one that would engage in contests with other schools in the coming British open tournament during which Hakep will defend his title. According to information received in golfing circles today.

BAR RADIO CONCERTS AND BEER

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Public houses in England, the surviving representative of that American institution now extinct, the saloon—have been forbidden to install radio sets and regale their customers with concert and beer simultaneously. The information came semi-officially to Washington for use of American manufacturers of radio apparatus, whose market is to be thus circumvented. Radio sets in public houses, the law justifies at Manchester ruled, according to the reports, turn them into a different type of entertainment places than the liquor-selling license laws the owner to maintain. He must either get a special license, the decision ran, or quit selling intoxicants.

possession a package of letters from him.

This information came as a sensation, after yesterday it had been reported that "Mr. Marshall" reputed to be a Boston manufacturer, whose identity has not been revealed by the district attorney's office, had kept his real name from the girl.

According to the information supplied the police from a source not divulged, the letters from "Mr. Marshall" were in Miss Keenan's apartment on West 57th street the night before she was found dead in bed, with an empty shot glass beside her. Miss Keenan was said to have been approached by one of her male friends, with the suggestion that the letters be put to practical use to extract more "sugar"—the gay White Way's term for dollars—from "Mr. Marshall."

"I have never done anything like that and I would never consent to such a thing now," the model was said to have replied.

The originator of the blackmail plot then was reported to have become angry and threatened Miss Keenan. After this scene, Miss Keenan was said to have placed by her private vault at the National City bank, at least one letter. The police said the box would be opened today.

Thousands Of Women Are Now Taking This Newer Form Of Iron

Worn-out Housewife Tells How She Quickly Regained Her Health and Strength.

"Only a short two weeks ago I was so tired, nervous and worn-out from the strain of my household and child-rearing duties, that I thought I could not live any longer. A short two weeks' treatment of the new form of iron has given me a marvelous increase in health, strength and energy. Now I can do my whole household work without help, and do not have to sit at home in the evening 'all-in' sick and nervous."

The above is a typical housewife's case," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Out-Door Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "You cannot be well and strong and full of vigor, and power until your blood is rich in iron. It is your red blood that enables you to resist and overcome disease and that nourishes every organ in your body. Without iron your blood is thin, pale and watery. Poor blood cannot nourish your vital organs and as a result you only have pain in your head, kidneys, indigestion, headache, and feel all 'run-down' and tired out."

When your blood lacks iron do not waste your time taking stimulants, narcotics or narcotic drugs, but directly enrich your blood with the newer form of iron sold by all druggists under the name of Nutrasol, which is like the iron in pinhead, lentils, and apples, and is in a form easily assimilated into your blood.

Get it for two weeks and if you have not, like thousands of others, obtained most surprising health, strength and energy, the manufacturer will promptly refund your money. The following local druggists will sell you Nutrasol with this "satisfaction or money back" guarantee.

For sale in this city by Green's drug store, A. W. Dows, F. H. Butler & Co., Frye & Crawford Drug Co., Burckisham Drug Co., and all other druggists.

LOWELL GUILD PLANS BIG BALL IN AUDITORIUM

A special meeting of all the committees of the Lowell Guild was held at 10 o'clock this morning at Middlesex hall to discuss plans for a ball to be held in the Memorial Auditorium April 5.

Mrs. Julian Keyes, presided at the meeting and gave a short outline of the various reasons for the necessity of the ball at this time of the year. She said that salaries alone of the nurses and officials of the Guild amounted to $17,000 a year and that the total amount necessary to carry on the work on its present scale was about $30,000 a year. She stressed the fact that no help was received from either the state or the city in this work and that it was carried along by charity and what little recognition the nurses received from the few persons they treated who were able to pay for their services. She also said that the Guild was planning to expand its work and so some educational work as well as plain nursing for this reason more money is necessary, but even if they did not attempt to enlarge their work they would need more support because of the fact that the past winter has been a severe one for sickness and the treasury is sadly depleted from the many calls that have been made upon it.

Several of the committee heads were called upon for reports of progress and all stated that their work was coming along as well as could be expected, no advertising had been done as yet. It was reported that advertising matter would be put into the papers and the stores within a short time and it is hoped that this will awaken more interest in the work. The committee on entertainment stated that the Braggiotti sisters of Boston, members of the Vincent club there, had promised to give two classical dances during the evening. The Braggiotti sisters are very well known socially in Boston and throughout the country, and their dancing has won them renown wherever they have performed. Plans for the supper which is to be held in Liberty hall on the same night as the ball were also discussed.

Miss McNevin, director of the nurses of the guild, was then called upon. She said, in part: "I feel that everyone here knows the work of the guild and knows that it is a community work. It is up to every interested person in the city of Lowell to take an active interest in its work. It reaches many more people than any other branch of service and we get into every home in Lowell that needs nursing service. I think that many people think this service is only for the very poor and over two-thirds of the cases we handle are of those who cannot make any recompense. But we want the well-to-do people, that is the people who can pay, to call upon our nurses for their services as well as the poor people. By their taking advantage of this service we will then be much better equipped to take care of those people who cannot pay for our services and will be able to extend our work to take in educational service as well as nursing service."

No Immediate Mill Strike

Manufacturers' Association in a letter to the secretary of the Textile Council accepting the latter's invitation to a meeting.

"We would suggest also, if it is agreeable to you, that we invite to the conference several citizens interested only in the general welfare of the whole community, these gentlemen to be selected by mutual agreement," the letter said.

In a statement made after a mass meeting of Textile Workers last night, President McMahon of the U. T. W. accused the Textile Council of working in collusion with the manufacturers to bring about a small wage increase, sufficient merely to avert a strike, and pointed to the possible presence of "citizens" at Friday's conference as proof of his charges. These outsiders, he charged, had been called upon to act as arbitrators between council and manufacturers, and the result possibly would be a wage increase of 12 1/2 per cent.

"We want 25 per cent, not 12 1/2 per cent," McMahon said. "We will get it, because we will control the situation among the workers."

Fight For Union Control

The fight for union control was said to hinge on the attitude of thousands of unorganized workers in the 111 mills here. President McMahon said that if the unorganized workers canvassed by his union had declared for the U. T. W. Members of the textile council maintained that in previous labor troubles these unorganized workers had always followed the lead of the Textile Council, and that they might be expected to do the same in this instance.

In his statement President McMahon indicated that he would take no strike action pending the result of the Textile Council-Manufacturers' association negotiation in the meantime making a canvass of the unorganized operatives and signing up for his union as many members of the Textile Council as possible.

After Friday's conference the Textile Council will refer to its six constituent unions: cardow, mule spinners, slasher tenders, yarn finishers, weavers and loom fixers—whatever plan is agreed upon at the conference. The unions will vote on this separately and report to the council, which then will take action. It was estimated today that this procedure would occupy at least a week.

Deary Class Advances in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, March 20.—Mill operatives here today were discussing a statement by Thomas Gorman, United Textile Workers agent here that calls in this city had already granted wages increases to skilled workers. While Gorman reiterated his announcement adding that he had positive information that loomfixers had been raised from $27.50 to $42 a week, mill agents denied that any class raises had been granted. The only changes recently they said were in individual cases in line with readjustments of this kind going on constantly.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

H. F. KELTIE'S THEATRE
The attractively staged dancing act of Len Rose and Kathryn Moon, assisted by Arthur Sorenson, accompanied by the orchestra, is the feature of the evening. The act is a well-organized and properly so, it would seem, is an act worthy of more than passing comment or a casual glance for several reasons. It is a well-organized and properly so, it would seem, is an act worthy of more than passing comment or a casual glance for several reasons.

With a smile that bores right into your heart, with Irish songs and stories, with a personality that is a real joy to his audience as a friendly entertainer, Tom Kelly scores heavily on the program. His stories are heard now and in the most delicious brogue that ripples like silver music. No stranger to Lowell, the comedian was warmly welcomed last night and will continue to be well appreciated during his week's stay.

Musical for the piano and violin, melodiously arranged and particularly well executed, comprises the act of Patricia and Sullivan. The former also sings with good effect and together they please easily.

Thomas J. Kelly admits he was stepping before the footlights at the Old Howard Atheneum 46 years ago, with John T. Kelly as a partner, but the years, he says, have not dimmed his memory of his first night on the stage.

Comedy under the caption, "I Don't Care" is put out by Paul Mohr and Harry Elmer. The latter is the star of the show with acrobatic and trick bicycle riding stunts that are unusually good.

An act in itself is the latest Charlie Chaplin release, "The Pilgrim," being shown in the city this week at three theatres.

Edwards Earle, the leading man in the great screen picture, "The Streets of New York," appeared in person at the Rialto theatre yesterday afternoon and last night and for about 10 minutes at each performance told intimate stories connected with film and some of its stars, which endeared him all the more to those who saw the opening performances of the great classic. He told of his experiences as the first leading man to Mary Pickford long before she was known star rose to her present position and also told amusing incidents connected with young Jackie Coogan, with whom he has worked on several occasions. Mr. Earle will also appear this afternoon and evening.

The "Streets of New York," in which Mr. Earle takes the leading role, opened a four day showing at the Rialto yesterday and established itself among the great pictures of the season such as "The Old Homestead" and others with a similar appeal. It is a story of absorbing human interest, in which a poor man who has been deceived and cast through an unscrupulous financier, play the leading parts and it tells with dramatic flourish how they finally regain what belongs to them in worldly goods. Other actors starring in the big production include Barbara Castleton, Anders Randolph, Dorothy Mackaill and Leslie King. The picture is taken from the old stage play of the same name which ran for more than a decade in New York and it has been dramatized several times by Burton King and produced by the State Pictures Corporation. The best and worst of New York is carefully introduced, even from the slum streets with ragged rickshaws running here and there.

The story opens in the banking rooms of Gideon Bloodgood, who is facing financial ruin. His misfortune is averted by the visit of Captain Fairweather, a sea captain who is on his way for a long voyage and who wishes a deposit of $100,000 in the interest of his wife and son.

The deposit will tide the banker over his immediate difficulties but he is planning to use the money for himself when the captain returns and demands his money. Bloodgood refuses and the shock kills the old captain. The banker then appropriates the money for his own use and throws the wife and son as outcasts.

The spectacle is now introduced to the poverty of New York where the woman and the boy are trying to eke out a living. The boy is run over by the banker's daughter and the mother is evicted from her lodgings because she is unable to pay the rent. Just when the whole world seems to be against them, the mother and son turn the tables on the banker and win their way back into fortune and life.

In one of the scenes leading up to this climax there is a most stupendous scene, in which a little cabin standing on the edge of a cliff is shattered by a bolt of lightning and is precipitated into a swollen stream, carrying two men to death grips. It is one of the most thrilling scenes of the entire production.

The Rialto program also carries another attractive screen production in "The Innocent Cheat," a comedy chapter of "Hurricane Hilarity," a comedy and the Rialto Review.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"Skin Deep" at the Merrimack Square theatre the first part of the week is an appeal for justice and opportunity for these men of the underworld who, when the country's call for men to fight was issued, answered long before their return are being forced back into their old life of crime because the police refuse to believe that a criminal is ever reformed.

Milton Sills plays the part of "Bud" Doyle, gangster, whose broken nose and battered face mark him and keep him out of the first part of the week. The gangster who enlisted in the service and distinguished himself "over there," returned from France he is framed for a robbery by his wife and the many gangsters who are in the city. The wife, named McQuarrie, still believing his wife innocent of any wrong-doing, he consents to attempt an escape from prison so that his wife may get on with her life. Each of the other members of the popular company plays his and her part in a manner which bespeaks of earnest and careful preparation.

"The Bad Man" opens in the house of young Jones where Henry Smith from Bangor, Me., an interfering individual, is visiting. Also at the invitation of Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Pell are stopping at the ranch house. Pell is a wealthy broker from New York's Wall Street, concerned with his wife, who is much broken up and Jones, being the son of a friend of his country, he is charged with his earnings, his cattle stolen from him and his wife and child are returned, he finds himself unable to meet a pending mortgage. Pell remains in the picture and eventually accuses young Jones of showing too much attention to his wife, and his wife, too much attention to Jones. He directs Jones to leave the house and then proceeds to subject his wife to inhuman treatment, when Fanch Lopez enters the house with the holder of the mortgage and his daughter and is about to take possession when Jones is brought in by Fanch Lopez's men. A mutual recognition between the bandit and Jones, who had fought side by side in France, results in a new complication. The "bad" man shows his goodness for a friend by resolving to make him as happy as possible and this is accomplished after a series of trying situations. The concluding act is a show in itself and leaves the audience in a pleasant mood.

OPERA HOUSE
The Al Lutteringer players scored heavily once again with their presentation of "The Bad Man" at the Opera House last night. "The Bad Man," a story of love, hate and fortune, was good, and especially as it was presented by the local players, and by Richard Morgan in the leading role as Fanch Lopez, a Mexican bandit. The difficult role of the wife of the other man is well taken by Mary Ann Decker, while Arthur DeLard capably portrays the part of Gilbert Jones, her lover. Morgan Pell, evil-minded and intriguing, finds Malcolme, realistic as Fanch Lopez, a friend of his and his part in a manner which bespeaks of earnest and careful preparation.

JOY OF HEALTH WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought I should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."—Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The reason is given in letters like these, and we have published thousands of them. You may expect that a medicine that has helped other women will help you. Try it.

for his good work. And Doyle returns to work for Dr. Langdon and to repay Langdon's ward for the good she has done him.

The other feature picture for the first part of the week is "The Pilgrim," featuring Charles Chaplin. Chaplin is seen in this picture without his cane and funny trousers, but in the black suit and wide-crowned hat of the clergyman. He has no desire to put on such a uniform but it is much better than the striped ones he wore as a jailbird so he adopts it for better or worse. His experiences as a clergyman furnish considerable comedy, and his attempts at treating the young lady at his boarding-house get a good deal of fun out of him. He becomes a sort of a hero by his saving of the mortgage money for his boarding-house keeper, but a kindly short-flicks him and takes him to the Mexican line and orders him over to for good. He experiences great doubt as to the advisability of going into much attention to Jones. He directs Jones to leave the house and then proceeds to subject his wife to inhuman treatment, when Fanch Lopez enters the house with the holder of the mortgage and his daughter and is about to take possession when Jones is brought in by Fanch Lopez's men. A mutual recognition between the bandit and Jones, who had fought side by side in France, results in a new complication. The "bad" man shows his goodness for a friend by resolving to make him as happy as possible and this is accomplished after a series of trying situations. The concluding act is a show in itself and leaves the audience in a pleasant mood.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"Skin Deep" at the Merrimack Square theatre the first part of the week is an appeal for justice and opportunity for these men of the underworld who, when the country's call for men to fight was issued, answered long before their return are being forced back into their old life of crime because the police refuse to believe that a criminal is ever reformed.

Milton Sills plays the part of "Bud" Doyle, gangster, whose broken nose and battered face mark him and keep him out of the first part of the week. The gangster who enlisted in the service and distinguished himself "over there," returned from France he is framed for a robbery by his wife and the many gangsters who are in the city. The wife, named McQuarrie, still believing his wife innocent of any wrong-doing, he consents to attempt an escape from prison so that his wife may get on with her life. Each of the other members of the popular company plays his and her part in a manner which bespeaks of earnest and careful preparation.

"The Bad Man" opens in the house of young Jones where Henry Smith from Bangor, Me., an interfering individual, is visiting. Also at the invitation of Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Pell are stopping at the ranch house. Pell is a wealthy broker from New York's Wall Street, concerned with his wife, who is much broken up and Jones, being the son of a friend of his country, he is charged with his earnings, his cattle stolen from him and his wife and child are returned, he finds himself unable to meet a pending mortgage. Pell remains in the picture and eventually accuses young Jones of showing too much attention to his wife, and his wife, too much attention to Jones. WOMEN RAISED RUCTIONS IN SALEM STREET

In the district court this morning, Rita LaCour of Boston, who was arrested last night with Helen M. McGowan on a charge of drunkenness, was ordered to furnish bail. In the sum of $200 for her appearance in court tomorrow, the case having been continued for sentence. The woman's appearance in court today resulted from a fracas at 243 Salem street last night in which the two women aroused the neighborhood by breaking furniture and tearing down curtains in the room of a lodger at that address. An emergency call was sent to the police station shortly before 11 o'clock, and Sergeant Samuel J. McGowan and Officer Thomas Sullivan responded.

When they reached the scene, one of the women was found in a front room in the midst of furniture and curtains, and bleeding from cuts self-inflicted by breaking glass. The other woman was also found in the wreckage, and both were sent to the station on charges of drunkenness. The McGowan woman was released this morning.

Both women came to this city yesterday, according to the man who occupied the room. One, it is said, is his wife, from whom he has been separated for some time. The other woman was a stranger to him. The police of Boston were notified, and it is for the purpose of awaiting their disposition of the woman, who is wanted in the Hub for defacing mail, that the local case was continued this morning.

MAN OF 60 REGAINS VIGOR HE HAD AT 35

New Orleans Resident Tells of Wonderful Result Produced by a Recent Scientific Discovery

D. W. Wood, 60, of New Orleans, La., declares he has virtually been made young again by the recently discovered Kortex Compound, which is pronounced superior to "gland treatments" as an invigorator and revitalizer. "It has brought me back to as good, healthy physical condition as I enjoyed at 35," he writes. "I am apparently as supple as at 35." Mr. Wood says he would not take $5000 for what the compound has done for him.

The compound is a simple home treatment in tablet form, absolutely harmless, yet the most powerful invigorator known. Acting directly on lower spinal nerve centers and certain blood vessels, it often produces amazing benefits in 21 to 26 hours. In nation-wide tests it has won the praises of thousands who suffered from nerve weakness, premature aging and lack of vital force. Physicians say it gives speedy satisfaction in cases that defy other treatments. Elderly people pronounce it a real "fountain of youth."

Knowing that this news may seem "too good to be true," the distributors invite any person needing the compound to take a $2 double-strength treatment, enough for ordinary cases, with the understanding that if it does nothing if it fails, if you wish, to try this guaranteed invigorator, write in strict confidence to the Mellon Laboratories, 45 Massachusetts Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. If you prefer, you may order it simply send your name, without money, and pay the postman $2 and postage on delivery. In either case, if you report after using what the Kortex Compound has not given you satisfaction, the laboratories will return your money immediately. This offer is fully guaranteed, so nobody need hesitate about accepting it.—Adv.

END A HEAD COLD QUICKLY; JUST USE THIS PURE CREAM

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing, inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief. How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hacking, sniffling, dizziness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.—Adv.

FIERY, ITCHING ECZEMA HEALED RIGHT UP BY APPLYING SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Menthol-Sulphur, for better skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort suffered from skin trouble should get a little jar of Menthol-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

He Darkened His Gray Hair

Tells How He Did It

Mr. J. A. McGraw, a well-known resident of California, who was called Daddy and Grandpa on account of his white hair, and darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add one ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 3/4 ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Adv.

FOR MAYOR OF NEWPORT

Special Elections to Name
Successor to Late Mayor
Boyle—Seven Candidates

NEWPORT, R. I., March 20.—The death of Mayor Boyle after serving but one month of a two year term, has forced another choice for a chief executive today. Seven candidates have offered themselves and waged a campaign of predicting results other than for campaign arguments.

Today is fair but cold and from the outpouring of the voters this morning there is every indication that they are thoroughly aroused and a vote marginally exceeding that of the regular election will be polled. A ballot taken in a school at the north end of the city gave Harry A. Tetus a handsome lead, while a similar ballot at the south end of the city showed pronounced popularity of M. A. Sullivan.

FOUND NOT GUILTY ON NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

John D. Pomerleau was found not guilty of the non-support of his wife when the case came up for trial in the district court this morning. The couple, according to the wife's testimony, have been married nine years, and while the husband has always paid the rent and grocery bills, she said, he threatened to leave her last Sunday, saying he had had enough of her and was "through." Last Thursday noon, she said, he came home and took all the food from the table and threw it into the stove, at the same time remarking that he would never eat another meal in that house. The following Sunday, she alleges, he came home in an intoxicated condition and called her vile names which she resented to the extent of leaving the house and going to the home of her sister. At that time, she said, he told her to vacate the premises and that if she refused, he would take drastic measures to see that she did.

When the wife returned to the house Sunday night, according to her testimony, she found that the lock on the door had been tampered with in such a way as to prevent the use of her key. She then went to the home of another sister and yesterday filed a complaint for non-support against her husband.

In view of the fact, explained the court, that it is a rare occurrence to find a man guilty of that charge unless a week or ten days have elapsed, he would have to render a finding of not guilty.

Attorney T. J. Reynolds, appearing for the complainant, then requested that a warrant for threatening be sworn out by the court against the husband, but Judge Knight said he never issued a warrant in court and then tried the case. Such procedure, he said, belonged to the clerk of court. The warrant was later filed for at the office and Pomerleau will soon be summoned to answer the threatening charge.

CAPT. CROWELL, VET- ERAN PILOT, DEAD

BOSTON, March 20.—Word was received today of the death of Captain Peter H. Crowell at Wilbur, Fla., yesterday. Captain Crowell, who was born in West Dennis, at 35 years of age, went to sea at 12, became master of a ship at 15, and sailed to all parts of the world for 30 years. Later he was connected for many years with the firm of Crowell & Thurlow of this city, shipbrokers. His home was in Melrose.

TO EXTEND POLL TAX TO WOMEN

BOSTON, March 20.—Instead of the throng for which the large Gardner Auditorium had been provided, only four persons were present for the legislative committee's hearing on a bill to extend the poll tax to women. None of them wanted to speak for or against the measure, which had developed considerable discussion.

Believe Thief Killed Girl

NEW YORK, March 20.—The police theory today was that it was a thief who, just as dawn was breaking last Thursday, chloroformed to death Dorothy Keenan, the model, to make a safe getaway with the jewelry and furs he stole from "the apartment" where her body was found the following noon. The police hinted that they have a clue to their man and that it would not be surprising if he were arrested noon.

A complete basis for this theory was outlined by the inspector but in general he indicated that the robbery might have been instigated by other women in the same building who knew Miss Keenan's habits and directed a man to carry out their orders. The police were certain today something intimate with the woman's affairs was in on the deed.

Miss Keenan's banking accounts were to be examined and her safety deposit boxes opened today to determine what the estate was and what the thief stole.

Engel, a girl, whose marriage to Miss Keenan was annulled, appeared voluntarily yesterday to explain that he had no connection with the murder and was not detained.

HEADS OLD DOMINION CO.

BOSTON, March 20.—The election of Captain Austin, president of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., as president of the old Dominion Steamship Co., was announced here today. He succeeds H. W. Welch of New York, who was made vice president. No other changes are contemplated at present. It was said, The Eastern Steamship line recently acquired control of the old Dominion Co.

48-HOUR QUESTION
CONCORD, N. H., March 20.—Facing the 48-hour question, the legislature were in order for hearing in both branches of the legislature today, the senate having a bill providing for the appointment of a commission by the supreme court, and the house, the Aiken resolution calling on the speaker to appoint a committee to draft a plan for a commission within 20 days. Both measures provided for a report to the next legislature.

HERRIN MINE RIOTS

Additional Witnesses Called by State to Testify Against Willis and Others

MAHON, Ill., March 20.—(By the Associated Press.) Additional witnesses were called today by the state to build up and strengthen its case against Hugh Willis, member of the state executive board of the Illinois Mine Workers and five others charged with the murder of Antonio Mulevich of Erie, Pa., during the riots of last June.

Testimony from state witnesses yesterday again connected Willis' name with that of the mob that, according to previous testimony, captured the non-union miners at the Lester strip mine, marched them down a country road unarmed and then shot them down by a barbed wire fence.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrup and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ADVENTUROUS CREW TO FILM SAVAGES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 20.—Twenty men, average age 40, have sailed from San Francisco on the old whaler Narwhal for the South Seas to film a childhood dream of riches to be gained through adventure. But not by recovery of buried pirate gold or robbery of native pearl divers do they hope to accomplish their purpose.

They will be a modern way—the enforced motion picture photography of savage tribes, said to be cannibals. Against the savages' poisoned arrows they are prepared to match the white men's firearms.

Among the crew are a Russian count and three former naval officers and two former army officers of the United States. Several of the men have college degrees; most of them fought in the American or British forces in the World war; a few are of mature age, retired from business.

Their vessel, the Narwhal, is a three-masted bark, stoutly built of oak in 1883. Its history includes seal poaching and whaling in the Arctic. Its tonnage is 523, and length, including bowsprit, is 135 feet. To purchase the boat and supplies the twenty men incorporated themselves, each contributing $800. Their corporation is called "The Mutual Trading Company."

Captain Charles L. Arrey, a member of the corporation, commands the Narwhal. Once he took it into the Arctic on a whaling cruise. During the war he was a lieutenant commander in the United States navy. His mate and three able seamen are the paid members of the present expedition to the South seas. None of the twenty adventurers ever previously sailed before the mast, but all have had sea experience.

The cargo carried by the Narwhal includes two tons of dynamite, considerable gasoline, much sacked coal, motion picture films and lumber. One of the crew remarked that in event of disaster they would go up, not down.

The Narwhal will touch first at Honolulu. From there it will proceed to Pago Pago, American Samoa, where the dynamite will be delivered to the United States navy. At Apia, British Samoa, the last of the cargo will be discharged.

Leaving Samoa, the Narwhal will set sail for islands seldom visited by white men—lands of romantic legend, of languorous breezes and love, of typhoons and cruel death. These islands are in the New Caledonia, New Hebrides, Solomon and New Guinea groups.

To obtain pictures of the islands and their people, the Narwhal's crew

Day in and day out/
FATIMA

Declared themselves willing to undergo any hardships, and to take any risks. Their vessel will anchor near the shore, and in a power launch a party will go ashore and proceed to the interior.

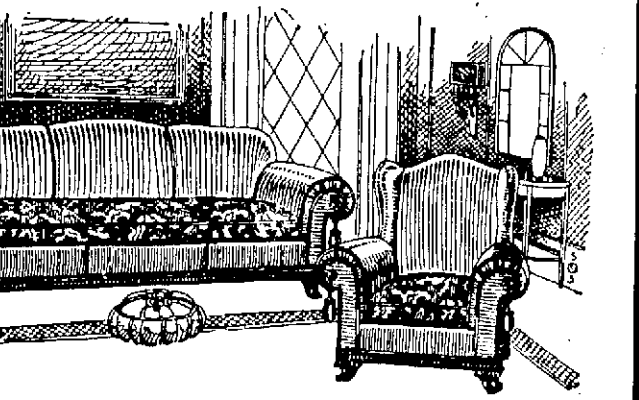

With trickets they will attempt to conciliate the savages, but if hostility be shown they are prepared to defend themselves with revolvers and rifles. One of the party is an experienced motion picture photographer, and it is from pictures that he will take that the members of the corporation expect to make their chief profit, if there is to be any.

From the many islands visited the Narwhal is expected to acquire a load of copra. Then, turning northward from the South seas, the island of Guam is to be visited on the return voyage to San Francisco. The cruise will cover approximately 25,000 miles. The president of the corporation is H. J. Richardson, a mechanical engineer who was lieutenant-commander in the United States navy during the war. Thomas J. Watson, secretary, is an insurance man of San Francisco who served in the United States medical corps in the war.

ON COTTON INDUSTRIES

"Lowell—An Industrial Dream Come True," Title of Interesting Book

"Lowell—An Industrial Dream Come True" is the title of an interesting and good-sized volume just issued from the pen of H. C. Meserve, secretary of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, copies of which have been received in this city by textile executives and digested with considerable real pleasure and profit.

Mr. Meserve's great admiration for Francis Cabot Lowell has evidently prevailed all through the book, and perhaps more particularly in the chapters relating to the birth and growth of the cotton textile industry in Lowell.

Few reading the Meserve volume that contains much that is really new in a historical and biographical way, can pursue the various chapters without a feeling of pride in the remarkable era of cotton manufacturing, in which we live, and in the comparatively short period in which this great achievement was accomplished.

In the space of 126 pages, Mr. Meserve tells an important story. He divides the progress in cotton manufacturing in New England into three periods: 1. The years prior to 1775, when work was done by hand and in the home; 2. The years between 1775 and 1814, during which time machinery was introduced and there occurred the transition from work at home, to segregation into separate industrial buildings; 3. The growth of power-driven machinery and the development of the "mill city."

About 1645, the general court of Massachusetts had made spinning compulsory on the part of each family. Later, in 1763, inflicting the penalty on manufacturers of cotton in New England was England was encouraged, Mr. Meserve quotes an advertisement:—

"The senior class of 1768 scholars at the University of Cambridge have unanimously agreed to take their degrees next commencement dressed altogether in the manufactures of this country."

The English people had used all of their energies to prevent the outside world, and the American colonies in particular, from learning the secrets regarding the manufacture of cotton machinery that had just been developed. British laws forbade the exportation of cotton machinery, and emigration of mechanics and manufacturers. Naturally, this worked great hardships on those who in New England were striving to make some headway with the industry.

Attempts to duplicate English machinery, from memory or otherwise, were unsuccessful, until the arrival of Samuel Slater. The importance of Slater's work is indicated in a statement that goods, which cost 40 to 50 cents a yard were sold at 9 and 10 cents a yard, after the new machinery had been in operation in this country a few years.

The spinning Jenny had made big strides in the process of spinning, but so much so that the spinning was actually far ahead of the weaving. It was not until Francis Cabot Lowell had constructed from memory, a machine containing the improvements of the Cartwright automatic loom, that the industry really made its greatest step toward production. The importance of this feat is indicated by the fact that it stopped when a thread broke.

Mr. Lowell, for whom the present city of Lowell was named, was then located in the plant of the Waltham company (now the Boston Manufacturing company). He was the first man to put the weaving and spinning together under one roof, and to make a machine that spun and wove at the same time. His brother-in-law, Patrick Tracy Jackson, was associated with him in the new mill enterprise.

Mr. Meserve's book also stresses the welfare work in behalf of operatives, for which Mr. Lowell was responsible. He makes it clear that the first efforts of his kind—establishing boarding houses under the charge of carefully selected matrons—religious instruction, free schools for the children of the employees—support of churches for the benefit of the operatives.

Nathan Appleton might be called the first social agent.

"All of the methods of operating a mill as they are in existence today, were instituted here—introduction of power machinery, process of manufacture in one building, mill organization and welfare work (at the Waltham company)," summarizes Mr. Meserve. "All these the industry owes to the foresight and ability of Francis Cabot Lowell. It is most fitting that in the city which bears his name, his ideas should have been developed."

The origin of the city of Lowell is outlined, starting with the construction of the Merrimack company. Considerable attention is given to the various interesting details of the mill corporation, as perfected at Lowell. About 1822, the character of the operatives commenced to change. "Pioneers" started to come. The higher cost of living, at this time, was responsible for the abandonment of the mill boarding houses. A contributing factor in this connection was the tendencies of the so-called foreigners to segregate by nationalities.

Called printing in America traces back to the Merrimack Manufacturing company, where the English operatives had been brought, especially for this purpose. Labor conditions and welfare work in Lowell are also described in the Meserve publication. At the time the Waltham company was built, the operatives worked about 50 hours a week. For years later, there were efforts to bring about a 10-hour day. Mills claimed that costs would not permit this. The Atlantic mills of Lawrence were the first to adopt a 10-hour day, at the same time taking precautionary measures in the way of "speeding up" machinery, to overcome the shorter hours.

A chapter in the Meserve historical volume is also devoted to "The Rise of Labor Unions—Union Disturbances in Lowell." There are many other interesting facts, comparing wages and the costs of living.

The book had its actual growth out of a paper read by Mr. Meserve at the last meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at Atlantic City. The paper was originally called "The Development of a Mill City."

DRIVEN OUT AT MIDNIGHT

Fire in East Merrimack Street—Policemen Rescue Woman and Children

Flames originating in paper stuffed in open sheathing of an old ceiling, causing spontaneous combustion, firemen believe, threatened to destroy a section of ancient tenements and a series of first-floor small stores, endangering also the lives of three families including six children. In the block of structures located on East Merrimack street directly opposite Columbus park, immediately opposite the church, shortly before midnight last night.

Policemen from the central station rescued three children and one woman, assisting them down the smoke-filled narrow stairways from second and third-floor tenements to the street. The badly frightened families, thinly clad and seeking only safety, were finally rounded up by the firemen and police and taken to the Memorial Auditorium where they were cared for by Night Watchman John W. Cassin and the remainder of the night.

The firemen had a hot fight to locate the seat of the midnight blaze, but promptly checked it after the blaze was discovered in the ceiling and roof. The flames were quenched, however, fire ate downward into the fruit store of John A. Saba on the street floor. In the side and rear, and did considerable damage.

The second floor tenement where the fire broke out, was damaged to a certain extent, although the work of the firemen was excellent in every way and headed off any chances the fire might have had to sweep upward through the walls of the old tenements and reach the attic roof.

Among the earliest at the fire after the sound of the alarm at 11:35 p. m., were Patrolmen Maloney, Dan Murphy and Kivlan, who assisted in removing several children down the stairways that filled early with heavy smoke from the burning sidewalk partitions. The families were removed safely before the firemen could assist in the work, thanks to the prompt appearance of the bluecoats in response to the fire alarm.

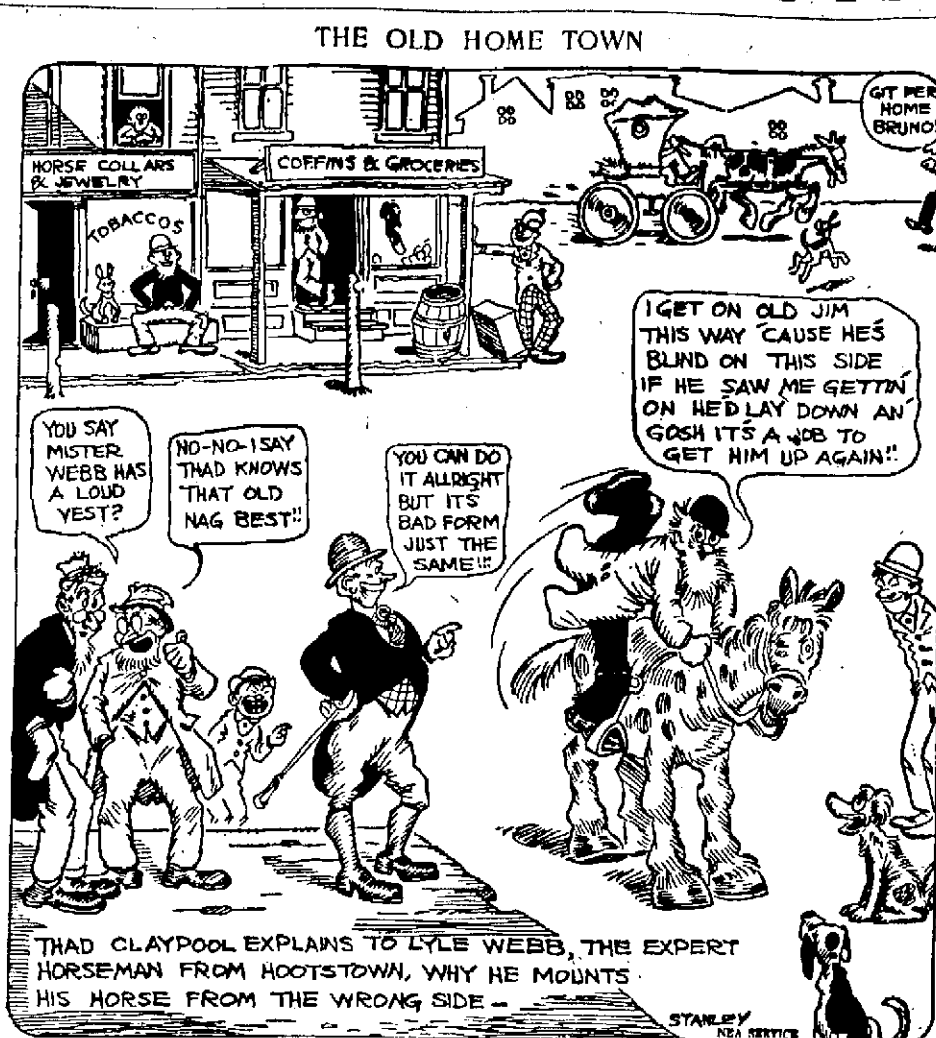

The families who were driven from the bedrooms half-clad and awakened from sound sleep, included those of Jan Romil, Mrs. Marya Polinski and Mrs. Nastasia Ukyrn, Polish-speaking people, with several children. All were taken to the Auditorium, the general offices there being opened for the rescued families' comfort. Food and hot drinks were provided.

One of the women rescued is employed in a Lawrence mill and is at home only on week-ends. The others are employed daily in local textile plants. None of them can talk very good English, and although badly frightened by the midnight fire, were able to go to their mill duties this morning at the usual time. The children attend the local schools.

The damaged building containing a chain of stores and tenements is the property of Israel Levine, tailor, at No. 147 East Merrimack street. He says he carries a total of $5000 on the property. He estimates his loss as not very large and praised the work of the firemen for their efficient handling of the blaze, which he said was the best he had ever seen.

Among the sustaining damage on the street floor was the fruit and candy store occupied by Saba at 129 East Merrimack street. Although flames ate their way downward through partitions, the chief losses will be from smoke and water, broken doors and windows and torn-out walls where the heart of the fire was located by the firemen and promptly quenched.

The Liberty Milk and Hop Co. at 143 East Merrimack street, sustained some water and smoke damage. The all-out signal was sounded on the bell alarm at 12:17 a. m.

K-97 GIVES FULL DETAILS

Complete Story of Alleged Communist Party Convention in August

Witness Tells of Issuance of Meeting Call, the Session and Raid

ST. JOSEPH, March 20. (By the Associated Press.)—A full story of the alleged communist party convention near here last August, from the issuance of the meeting call until the raid on it directed by Berrien county officials as told by a department of justice agent, was contained today in the unfinished record of the trial of William Z. Foster of Chicago, for criminal syndicalism.

The government agent, arrested in the raid only to disappear "mysteriously" when the others caught by the officials were arraigned, told the story from the witness stand, yesterday, identifying himself as K-97 in government secret service files; as Ashworth to the alleged communists and as Day to the delegates at the convention. He is Francis Morrow of Camden, N. J.

After identifying numerous documents seized by the officials, Morrow told of his activities with the communist party, actions that brought him into the favor of the organization and caused him to be selected as a delegate to the convention.

His testimony brought out the painstaking efforts to keep the meeting place secret. Only a chosen few were told the convention site and those with that knowledge met others from various towns and directed them to Bridgeport near the scene of the gathering in the dunes.

All delegates were given an alias. Morrow testified. He was designated as Day, while Foster, the defendant, was known as "Comrade Borden."

Branch of Fascisti of Italy Now Has 20,000 Members in This Hemisphere

U. Menicucci in Charge Here—Acts as "Political Secretary"

NEW YORK, March 20.—A branch of the Fascisti of Italy, called the Fascisti of North America, was founded in this country two years ago, and now has 20,000 members in branches in many of the leading cities of the United States and Canada. The New York Herald says today.

Temporarily, the organization in this hemisphere is said to be under the direction of U. Menicucci, who acts as "political secretary." Officers of the New York headquarters of the American organization are to be elected at a meeting here Saturday night, the sequel to one held last Saturday night at which headquarters was dedicated, the paper says.

While in Italy the Fascisti was such dominant political force that it swept into the premiership its leader, Mussolini, no such end is sought in this country.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING

Two More Lowell Industries Report Great Activities in Production

Two more Lowell industries report healthy activities in the production of necessities of life in lines of wearing apparel.

Wachusett mills report a surplus of $4,474 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1922, which compares with a deficit profit and loss for the previous year of $2,968, according to the company's annual report just made public.

Merchandise inventories are carried on the company's balance sheet at $204,348 as against $106,127 in 1921. This increase, together with other increases in the Lowell concern's quick assets, brings the total current assets to almost double those of the previous year.

Considerable increases are noted in current liabilities, but the company reports that it has been able to meet a tax reserve of $1,800. The company lists its goal will at $50,000. The capital stock is $80,000, accounts payable $166,127, notes payable $36,350, accrued liabilities $2,784.

Operations at the Wachusett plant on Middlesex street have been flourishing for some time past. Recently night work was decided upon, advertisements being inserted in various New England channels for good workers on woollens. It has been stated that the Wachusett's business has expanded in a most satisfactory way during the past few months.

Shaw Stocking company reports a surplus of $334,855 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1922, according to the company's balance sheet published yesterday in a financial record journal as follows:—

Assets—Real estate, $161,444; machinery, $289,742; furniture, fixtures and tools, $15,000; merchandise, $455,578; accounts receivable, $214,603; cash, $36,485; insurance prepaid, $10,207; interest prepaid, $8,809; trademarks, $10,000; total, $1,119,856.

Liabilities—Capital stock, $450,000; accounts payable, $17,491; notes payable, $367,500; surplus, $334,855; total, $1,199,856.

AUDITORIUM CUSTODIAN

Action Upon Election of Permanent Custodian Against Deferred by Trustees

Action upon the election of a permanent custodian for the Memorial Auditorium again was deferred last evening by the board of trustees pending such a time as the civil service commission passes upon certain charges of unfitness made by Mayor John J. Donovan against Collin H. MacKenzie, one of three eligibles for the position and at present, temporary custodian and building manager.

At the meeting of the trustees one week ago the mayor questioned Mr. MacKenzie relative to certain connections and conversation alleged to have taken place between him and the election commission in the fall of last year when signatures to the Plan B charter petition were being collected and last night the mayor declared he was prepared to prove these charges, but the other trustees felt it a matter that promptly should be placed before the civil service commission, and it was so decided.

Present at the meeting were Messrs. McKelvey, Braden, Maguire and Allard of the election commission, City Solicitor Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan, Edward J. Tierney, representing Mr. MacKenzie, former Mayor George H. Brown and the secretary, Joseph A. Cloutier. Thomas P. Bowler strenuously objected to having witnesses heard in an attempt to substantiate the mayor's charges, declared the mayor's verbal statements were a reflection upon Mr. MacKenzie's character and should be heard and reviewed by the civil service commission. Major Fred A. Estes said he could not understand why the mayor's charges had not been made at an earlier date, or before the matter had reached its present stage and Mr. Bowler spoke along the same line.

"It is a cold business proposition with me," declared Major Estes, "and politics doesn't enter into it in any way."

The mayor replied that politics had not influenced him in the matter; either, and added that he simply was attempting to elect a man from the top of the eligible list.

It finally was decided to lay the matter on the table until such a time as it may be taken before the civil service commission, where witnesses would be obliged to testify under oath. This was agreeable to Mayor Donovan, who, in fact, presented the motion. An amendment offered by Mr. Bowler, authorized the solicitor to request an extension of time on the probation of the three in question on the eligible list so that they will not forfeit their rights for appointment.

SACCO IS CHEERFUL

Slayer Very Comfortable Today After Seven Hours' Sleep in Hospital

BOSTON, March 20.—Nicola Sacco, convicted murderer under observation at the Psychopathic hospital by court order as a result of his hunger strike at the Dedham jail, was very comfortable today after seven hours sleep, hospital officials said. He was rather stronger and the physicians considered that all danger of serious effects from his prolonged fast had passed. Temperature, pulse and respiration, were normal. He appeared cheerful and ate a breakfast of cream toast, chicken soup, crackers and cocoa.

In this country, the Herald quotes Signor Menicucci as saying: Besides promoting accord between citizens of Italy and the United States, he said, the Fascisti here are to see that Italians understand the duties of their citizenship and obey the laws of the country in which they live. It will keep out of American politics, he added.

Branches are said to have been established in Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Montreal, Buffalo, Schenectady, Watertown, Conn., Kansas City, Detroit, Pueblo, Colo., Columbus and Niles, Ohio, and Bethlehem, Pa.

The Fascisti in the United States will stand principally for this order, said Signor Menicucci: "Unity of Italian veterans of the American and Italian armies; help for disabled veterans; aid for immigrants; prevention of unemployment and Americanization."

Night schools will be set up first in New York and then elsewhere by the various locals, he added.

CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

John O'Loughlin's appearance in the district court this morning, on a charge of drunkenness resulted in the revocation of a former suspended sentence of two months to the house of correction. The arresting officer testified that the man was taken from his cell in an intoxicated condition last night, after he had terrorized his family with threats to kill his wife and children. Frank A. Collins and George J. Hogan also visited their probationary period and were sentenced to the house of correction for four and three months, respectively, for drunkenness. Susan Waldron was also found guilty of drunkenness and received a one month sentence to the house of correction.

Jacob Miller, who sometime ago pleaded not guilty to a charge of larceny, changed his plea to nolo this morning and the case was placed on the civil settlement having been made.

William C. Sullivan pleaded guilty to the non-support of his wife and received a sentence of five months to the house of correction, suspended for one year.

Andrew Mico, arrested by the district police for illegal keeping and sale, was granted a continuance until March 20.

For being drunk and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Frank Kennedy was allowed a continuance until April 20.

GIRL TAKES POISON, HER COMPANION HELD

BOSTON, March 20.—Sylvia Henderson, the 16-year-old Roxbury girl, who was taken to the city hospital last night, after swallowing poison at a hotel, was still in a critical condition today. Fred Smith was detained by the police as a suspicious person today in connection with the case. The girl and a man who accompanied her to the hotel, registered as Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Harrison of Portland, Me. After being taken to the hospital the girl told the police that she had quarreled with her mother, and also with her lover.

His testimony brought out the painstaking efforts to keep the meeting place secret. Only a chosen few were told the convention site and those with that knowledge met others from various towns and directed them to Bridgeport near the scene of the gathering in the dunes.

All delegates were given an alias. Morrow testified. He was designated as Day, while Foster, the defendant, was known as "Comrade Borden."

STRANGULATION CAUSED DEATH OF BABY BOY FOUND IN LOCAL MILL YARD CANAL

"Murder," commented Judge Thomas J. Enright after reviewing the result of the autopsy performed yesterday afternoon by Dr. Frank Bulkeley of Ayer on the body of the baby boy which was found in the canal in the Hamilton mill yard.

The body of the infant was found by workmen in the mill yard about 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and was later removed to the undertaking parlors of J. F. O'Donnell and Sons, where Dr. Bulkeley, acting medical examiner in the absence of Dr. T. B. Smith, pronounced death due to strangulation. As the result of a more thorough examination yesterday, the following report was submitted to the police authorities this morning:

"The body was that of full term, fully developed baby boy at or about term. The baby was born alive and breathed. Within a very short time of birth, some constricting band was placed about the neck and drawn tight. There was no mark of a knot. Death occurred very soon after birth, probably within a few minutes. The cut on the hip was post mortem and probably incidental to immersion. The baby was dead when placed in the canal."

The matter, so far as the police are concerned, remains a mystery, and although a special detail has been working on the case, the responsible party or parties have not been found.

TELLS STORY OF ORIENT

Arthur D. Prince Entertains
Local Rotarians With Orient Tour Story

China—sleeping giant of the Orient—friendly, smiling, hard-working, powerful yet actually ignorant of its stagnant might, wonderful ingenuity and capabilities, was described in vivid fashion with many interesting close-up references this afternoon to the delight of nearly 100 Rotarians by a former member of the organization, Arthur D. Prince, merchant-traveler.

It was an event of note in Rotarian circles. The entertaining talk had been promised some time ago and the members looked forward to something really good and were not disappointed.

Mr. Prince gave a most intimate account of a recent visit to Japan and China, dwelling mostly on the far Orient and bringing first-hand accounts of revealing investigations into many Chinese fields of life and activities as seen with modern eyes.

No nation in the world, Mr. Prince said, is more of a real friend of the United States today than China. He prophesied that China would someday awaken and come to a full realization of its enormous wealth and strength as a great nation of more than 400,000,000 human souls, and then, perhaps, the prophecies of old-time world emperors like Napoleon and Woolsey, who declared that some day China would arise in its might and rule the hemisphere, would come true.

Previous to the fine story of his Oriental travels, Rotarians listened to reports from the Hartford Rotarian 31st district convention brought by former President Robert Thomson and George F. Wells. Albert D. Milliken introduced four or five superintendents, assistant superintendents and other executives from the Hamilton plant, and Charles Hartford and Chas. Campbell of Fall River Rotary, also stood up to be counted, together with former Mayor Perry D. Thompson, Ralph Nickerson, Congressman John Jacob Rogers and Postmaster Xavier Delisle.

A tender note in the business session was struck when a letter came from a well known Lowell resident recently dispossessed of his home, furnishings and family clothing by a disastrous fire, who wanted to thank the Rotarians for extending aid with generous gifts of cash, clothing and household utensils. The fire occurred Feb. 22 and left the family practically destitute.

The speech of President H. Hutchins Parker, delivered at the Hartford convention, was duly ordered "engraved on the club records in letters of gold, and the members cheered, too, when Brother Thomson, Lowell resident, also "Lowell Evening" dinner in Providence cost a lot of money and everybody went away before the bill was paid, but that the Lowell presiding officer of the wonderful feast got back safely and heart and purse whole, and with some profit on the expense account. Only the Rotarians who went in Providence know how to tell that story right.

Lawrence Hutchinson have challenged Lowell to a series of bowling matches. The contest with the Pittsburgh club on membership relations it not yet over, but Lowell leads and ten-dollar officers are coming down the line, with Pittsburgh paying.

Mr. Prince's Address

TROLLEY CARS
COLLIDE, 50 HURT

40 Persons Rushed to Hospital After Head-on Collision in East Springfield

Officials Say Operator of One-Man Car Disregarded Block Signal

SPRINGFIELD, March 20.—Fifty persons were injured, but only one seriously, in a head-on collision of trolley cars in East Springfield this morning. Though upward of 40 persons were taken to hospitals and others received medical attention at the Westinghouse plant, near the scene of the accident, most of those treated were able to go home within a short time.

The accident, according to officials of the Springfield Street Railway Co., was due to disregard of a block signal set against him by W. L. Caron, operator of a one-man car which contained only two passengers. At the foot of an incline the car crashed into another in which were about 30 passengers. The passengers were mainly employees of local factories coming from their homes in Ludlow and the eastern part of this city.

The vestibules of both cars were demolished and the ends telescoped for several feet. Police and hospital ambulances were rushed to the scene of the accident.

WITNESS OF SHOOTING OF SIX PRISONERS

MARION, Ill., March 20.—(By the Associated Press) George Dodd, a witness for the prosecution at the Herrin riot trial, testified today that he had been an eye witness of the shooting of six prisoners at a cemetery on the outskirts of Herrin. Marshall Lantz of Herrin, a real estate dealer, said he had seen the six prisoners led through Herrin. He testified that the prisoners were carrying some had coats but were carrying their hands behind their backs. Dodd testified that there were two or three thousand persons in the streets at the time. Similar testimony was given by R. P. Poole, a Herrin real estate dealer.

EXPLOSION IN POWDER MILL KILLS TWO MEN

SCRANTON, Pa., March 20.—Two employees were killed, a third so badly injured that he will die, and buildings in town 15 miles away, shaken today, when a powder mill of the Du Pont Powder Co., near here blew up.

Deaths of many races, he has found much that is new, much that he never knew before and much of profit as an American citizen.

His stop in Japan was not a long one and he was not greatly impressed, he said, with Japanese manners. The friendliness that he was to meet when he reached China a little later on, was absent in Japan. The Chinese are both cheerful and polite and have a high regard for Americans. In Japan it is directly the opposite. There the inhabitants appear to carry chips on their shoulders, Mr. Prince said.

The voyage to the Orient was taken on the Empress of Canada. The crew consisted mostly of Chinese, with three Chinese boys attached to each cabin as attendants. Service was excellent always on the voyage across the ocean.

Mr. Prince declares that foreign nations all have concessions in China, but America has nothing that it does not pay for. That is why Americans, who take nothing that does not belong to them, are so well liked by the Chinese.

The speaker described life in China as strangely active, the Chinese being hard workers for small wages. The concessions are slowly, healthful and well planned, but "just across the way" from the foreign nations, China has in vast quantities, richness and poverty of the worst kind. The clothing of Chinamen consists of a mixture of Chinese and foreign garments. A blacksmith worked 15 hours a day dressed simply in a plain cloth

Passage of Ordinance Over Mayor's Veto Presaged at City Hall—Measure Was Vetoed by Mayor Yesterday Afternoon—Assessors Send Out Questionnaires Relative to Auto Ownership—Other City Hall News

That the city council at this evening's meeting will pass the salary ordinance over the mayor's veto seems to be the consensus of opinion in certain departments at city hall. The argument is that the ten councilors who voted in favor of the ordinance when it was first brought before the council, will stand firm and if the matter is again brought before the council tonight, they will again vote in favor of the measure.

The salary ordinance was vetoed by Mayor Donovan yesterday afternoon on the ground of economy and now two-thirds of the council or ten votes are required to pass the measure over the mayor's veto. The councilors who voted against the ordinance at the meeting were Councilors Chadwick, Cameron, Stearns, McPadden and Hennessy. It is believed that these councilors will stand by their original vote, but those who claim to have a little inside information say that not one of the ten will change his vote.

President Gallagher of the council, who is also chairman of the committee on finance that recommended the adoption of the ordinance, stated today that he has not heard one word about the ordinance since the measure was vetoed by the mayor.

Pres. McMahon of U. T. W. to Await Result of Conference at Fall River

To "Play the Game" Pending Negotiations Between Rival Union and Mill Men

FALL RIVER, March 20.—There will be no immediate strike of the cotton textile operatives of this city controlled by the United Textile Workers of America, who have demanded a wage increase of 2 1/2 per cent from the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Fall River. Pending decision of the manufacturers on the demand of the Fall River Textile Council, a rival union organization for a wage increase of 15 per cent, President Thomas F. McMahon of the U. T. W. announced last night that he would withhold a strike call, and "play the game" with the manufacturers and textile council, seeking meantime to gain control of the union forces in the city.

Today interest centered in the negotiations between textile council and manufacturers. The council was to tonight to consider a proposal made yesterday by the manufacturers that outside representatives be admitted to a conference Friday between the council and the Manufacturers' Association to consider the wage demand.

This proposal, said to be an innovation in textile wage conferences here, was made by S. E. Smith, secretary of the executive committee of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association.

Dracut Man Enlists in Organized Reserves After 30 Years of Army Service

After 30 years of active service in the United States army, Ismael A. Park has been unable to break completely with the service and has applied for a commission as second lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corps, Organized Reserves.

Mr. Park has been attached to the Coast Artillery during the whole of his service and holds 10 honorable discharges each one with the rating of sergeant or better. He has been service at every Coast Artillery station from St. Augustine, Fla., to Bangor, Me., and also in the Philippines.

His first enlistment was dated January 1, 1891 and his final discharge June 9, 1921. During the war he ranked as a second lieutenant in the ordnance corps attached to the Coast Artillery at various forts along the Atlantic coast.

Regardless of the fact that Mr. Park has served 30 years he is only 56 years of age, and in his application for a commission requested that he be given active service for at least 15 days every summer, stating that he would be ready for call at any time that his services are necessary.

Mr. Park is a resident of Dracut, is married and has, besides his wife, two daughters, Major Tooley, U.S.A.C., considers that in getting him to sign up for service he has signed up a man whose success is sure and who is capable of doing anything that the government might call upon him to do.

(Special to The Sun.)
BOSTON, March 20.—Due to a fault in the first order of notice a hearing scheduled for today in the supreme judicial court of Suffolk county on the petition of Dennis E. Connors and 28 other Lowell citizens that an injunction restraining further payment of money to the Engineering Service and Construction Co. of Boston under a contract for the reconstruction of Central bridge, was postponed one week or until March 27.

The error in the notice was found when the case was called at 10 a. m. today before Justice Bradley, who then ordered a new temporary injunction and a new order of notice to issue returnable on the 27th. The city of Lowell was represented by Solicitor J. J. O'Sullivan, the Engineering Service and Construction Co. by John M. O'Donoghue and the petitioners by John H. Backus and James P. Meagher of Boston.

In addition to asking that the city be enjoined from paying any more money under the contract the petitioners also pray that a master be appointed to investigate business relations between the city and the company and that the company be ordered to return to the city money which the petitioners allege has been unlawfully paid and received.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH TO INVESTIGATE MERRIMACK RIVER ODOR COMPLAINTS

(Special to The Sun.)
BOSTON, March 20.—Following a hearing today before the legislative committee on public health and during which the odors that come from the Merrimack river in Merrimack valley were described as being so bad that the people have to close their windows in the summer time, the committee favorably reported the resolve of Senator Albert P. Wadleigh of Merrimack calling for an investigation by the state department of health to remedy the evil.

The resolve provides that the department of public health investigate the condition of the Merrimack river

MONTHLY SESSION OF THE PROBATE COURT

NEW YORK, March 20.—The Italian steamer Giulia, 2737 tons, is in distress about 140 miles east of New York, wireless messages picked up here today said.

The Giulia carried a crew of about 50, but no passengers. She sailed from New York March 4 for Portland, Me., and departed from that port for Italy.

At the office of Phelps brothers, agents for the Giulia, it was said they had been advised that the steamer was listing heavily. Two steamers, one of them the freighter Tolosa, Liverpool to Boston, were reported to be hurrying to the aid of the Giulia.

Later it was reported that the Allen Line steamer was steaming to the sinking freighter, and would probably be up with her early this afternoon. When she wireless this forenoon, she was approximately 60 miles from the Giulia. The Tolosa at the same time wireless her position as 58 miles from the distressed ship.

CARNEY GETS HOUSE OF CORRECTION SENTENCE

Thomas Carney, who was arrested in this city yesterday morning by Lieut. Martin Maher and Sgt. Philip Dwyer on a charge of larceny, was found guilty of the charge in the district court this morning and ordered committed to the house of correction for a term of five months. Carney was arrested following a telephone message from D. K. Kimball of Manchester of Manchester, N. H., to the effect that he had lost a traveling bag on the 6.30 o'clock train out of Boston Sunday evening. A short while after receiving the communication, the two

ENFORCE LAW AGAINST ALL

Atty. Gen. Daugherty Calls
For Enforcement of Law
Against All Classes

Conscientious Effort to Enforce Laws Will Break
Refusal to Obey Law

MIAMI, Fla., March 20.—Enforcement of law equally against all classes to-day stands out as a factor on which much depends towards advancement of the nation, according to Attorney General Daugherty who last night addressed the Florida Bar association here through a letter.

"Conscientious and determined effort to enforce laws," he wrote will finally break down stubborn refusal to obey the law," which, he continued, might temporarily prevent universal and perfect enforcement.

The laws, he said, should be enforced against the "rich and the so-called poor," "against the majority and against the minority," "and everywhere in the land, or upon the sea, wherever the courts shall hold that governmental jurisdiction extends."

Every legal and constitutional act passed by congress and every final decree of the courts, he continued is enforceable in this country.

Mr. Daugherty pledged his office and urged co-operation of the lawyers in sustaining power and influence "which guarantees the continuance of constitutional government which now, more than ever, is necessary and is now, more than ever, by all intelligent peoples throughout the world recognized as the ideal government of any God-fearing and God-recognizing people."

IRISH REBELS APPEAL FOR ARMS FROM U. S.

DUBLIN, March 20. (By the Associated Press).—A letter purported to have been written by Liam Lynch, republican army leader, to Joseph McGarrity, of Philadelphia, urging the vital importance of "a consignment of arms arriving as soon as possible," was made public today by the Free State government.

"One piece of small artillery in a few weeks would be worth 20 pieces arriving in a couple of months," Lynch was said to have written. "Time is on the side of the enemy. We want to make the most of the coming few months. If it is at all possible to have such here at once, nothing should prevent it. We could turn the scale here immediately and also the war quickly, if this arrived."

To Investigate Merrimack River Odor Complaint

and the matter of sewerage and sewage disposal in the valley of the river in the cities of Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport and in the towns of Dracut, Tyngsboro, Chelmsford, Billerica, Tewksbury, Andover, North Andover, Methuen, Groveland, West Newbury, Merrimack, Amesbury, and Salisbury.

At the hearing today Senator Wadleigh said that the city and town along the river from its source in New Hampshire, dump their sewage into the water. He said there are all kinds of odors come from it and that these odors are so bad in some places that the people have to close their windows down. He further stated that the department of public health with all its engineering facilities would be able to make a complete investigation. The resolve provided, he said, that the department may spend $20,000 for the investigation. He also stated that several engineers have told him that it would probably only cost between $12,000 and $15,000. There is a population of 450,000 in the valley that would be affected and that this would amount to between 3 and 3 1/2 cents a person.

N. H. Goddough, an engineer in the department of health, favored the resolve. He said that there was a serious nuisance from the sewage in the Concord river in Lowell, and this nuisance has been growing constantly worse for the last twenty years in the Merrimack river. He stated that the cost to settle the whole problem would be almost prohibitive, but that this investigation would go a long way towards relieving the situation.

Representative M. S. Donahue, of Brockton said that something must be done or an epidemic is liable to break out at any time. Mr. Donahue is a member of the committee on public health.

Louis C. Lawton, city engineer of Haverhill, and Representatives McCormick and Dow of Methuen, also spoke in favor of the measure.

police officers were walking on Central street when their attention was attracted to a man endeavoring to dispose of a silver flask. Failing to satisfactorily answer their questioning, he was taken to the police station on suspicion. He gave a rooming house number in Sumner street, and when the authorities investigated they found a black leather bag with the initials "K." containing a pair of shoes, valued at $5, two pairs of pajamas, valued at $5 each, two shirts, valued at $5, six collars, valued at 15 cents each, a cap, valued at $2, two ties, valued at 75 cents each, a toilet set, valued at $3, one razor, valued at $5 and several other articles of minor value. A $5 bill was also found on his person and when asked where he got it, he replied that he earned it. He loaned him $7 the day before and the $5 then in his possession was probably the balance. Carney pleaded guilty this morning.

Cold Reception For Miss Spring

below-zero points in the country news about Lowell, the "official" at the locks and Canal was just five above, but it seemed much colder. No night of the present season was actually colder. It seemed, for the winds sweeping straight out from the old northwest reached gal proportions and chilled everyone bound for home and supper last evening to the innermost marrow.

The gale had not receded this morning and everybody walking to work found it much colder than the downtown glasses registered. At eight o'clock, the Page glass registered 12 above, but the breezes were cold enough to sting the ears and hands and bite all noses in the usual way. Demands for coal and coke were the rule today, only more so. Up to yesterday the "crisis" had dropped at some coal stations, but the parade started early today and fuel is the thing until this frigid blast lets down. Moderate temperatures will not prevail until tomorrow, the weather indications show. It will be cloudy Wednesday, too, with the northwest gales, diminishing and becoming southerly.

Accompanying the card is a request to mail back the card as soon as possible. Fifty-five hundred cards were mailed today and Chairman Hogan of the board of assessors stated that if the cards are properly filled out and mailed back to city hall they will enable the assessors to trace the automobiles that have changed hands since last year.

Solicitor in Boston
Complying with the wishes of the board of trustees for the Memorial Auditorium. City Solicitor O'Sullivan went to Boston this morning, to request the civil service commission for an extension of time for the appointment of a custodian for the Auditorium building. The time limit set by the civil service commission for the appointment of a custodian was March 22, but owing to the fact that Mayor Donovan has brought charges against Collin MacKenzie, the present custodian, whose name appears in third place on the list, the trustees wish for more time to look into the matter.

Playground Supervisors
As far as is known there will be no appointment of new playground supervisors, this year, for the forty or more supervisors who were on duty last summer on the various playgrounds of the city have already signified their willingness to serve again this year.

Last December there was an examination held for playground supervisors and 30 candidates successfully passed the test. It seems that a great many of the candidates have been bringing pressure to bear upon the superintendent of parks for appointment, but the latter wishes it known that the appointments are in the hands of the park board, and that no appointment is being contemplated this year.

What She Saw in the Looking-glass

By Marion Jones

Lucille would have been a lovely girl, a real beauty, but alas! her complexion was bad, her face was covered with unsightly pimples, and at dances the young men passed her by for girls with smooth, velvety skins, though they were not endowed by Nature with a fairer form or lovelier face, were it not for the disfiguring blotches. She spoke of her distress to the old family physician, who gave her a simple cooling lotion, and said: "No outward application will cure you, what you need is a good blood purifier, something to tone up a sluggish liver, and I am glad to recommend a splendid herbal remedy I have used in my practice for many years. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I knew Dr. R. V. Pierce and can assure you that his remedy is a purely vegetable one, as I have analyzed it. Come back to me in a month, dear child."

With renewed hope Lucille followed his advice. Gradually her complexion cleared, the pimples disappeared and everyone looked with surprise and admirations at a girl with a smooth and lovely skin, and her girl friends eagerly inquired what had caused this transformation. "Of course," she replied, with a happy smile, "I owe it to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery." And Lucille voices the sentiment of many of your own neighbors. One woman says:

Lowell, Mass.—"I have taken Dr. Pierce's medicines at various times and have always been greatly benefited. Have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets for a weakened condition and was greatly strengthened by their use. I always take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets whenever I am in need of a laxative and find them a great help for indigestion and all stomach troubles."—Mrs. M. E. Courser, 74 West Third st.

The real secret of foot comfort

IT'S all in the way the shoe is fashioned. The Arnold Glove-Grip looks like any high-grade, well-designed and stylish shoe. But inside, curving up snugly against the instep, it follows the natural lines of the foot, gently but firmly gripping and holding up the arch. Lacing a Glove-Grip Shoe raises the arch instead of pushing it down. This is the real secret of foot comfort and it can be had only in Arnold Glove-Grip Shoes, without the sacrifice of good looks.

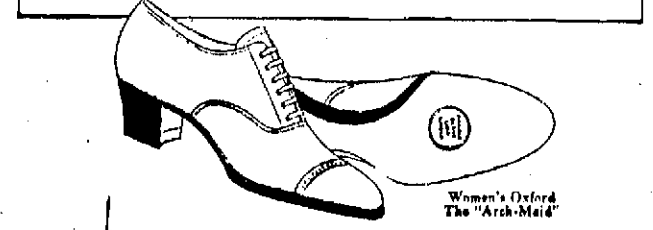

Both men's and women's styles in a variety of the latest leathers and shapes. The "Arch-Maid," illustrated below, is one of the popular styles for women. Its shapely lines, trim toe and well-proportioned heel of all-leather make it particularly appropriate for street-wear.

Come in and look over the styles. Try on a pair. There is no obligation to buy—just feel that wonderful sensation of foot ease.

"A positive revelation in unmarred melody"

In appearance, a Columbia New Process Record resembles practically every other disc record. But, play this record on any phonograph and you will be amazed at the superb smoothness of outpouring melody.

In the brief interval before the music commences, you may detect the needle faintly whispering. Compare this with the strident scratch that greets you on other records. At the very first note of the prelude even this almost imperceptible sound dissolves. Compare this with the insistent scrape that intrudes itself through the music on other records.

This surface quietness that lets your ears, unhindered, hear the infinite variety of delicate shadings of the singer's voice, that translates for you the musician's sensitive touch into the glow of poetic imagination, is unparalleled in phonographic reproduction.

As an example of this "unmarred melody," go to any Columbia shop and ask to hear Al Jolson singing his latest, "Wanita," record A-3812. The music is jolly and the words infectious, and admirers of Jolson's stage singing will especially appreciate the perfect reproduction of this clever actor's tone and expression. On the other side is another hilarious treat—Frank Crumit singing "Jimbo Jambo." It is like hearing Crumit himself.

Columbia's process of making records with a hard, durable core, overlaid with a new surface so marvelously smooth that the needle travels over it practically without friction, pronounced the death sentence on obnoxious scratch and scrape. The process is patented. No one else can make a record at all similar.

THE PALLOPHOTOPHONE AND C. A. HONIE, INSET, ITS INVENTOR

MYSTERY OF BRANDING OF CHILD SOLVED

LYNN, March 20.—The mystery of the branding of three-year-old William Smith with the letters "B.B." was considered solved today by Dr. Thomas H. Murphy's discovery that the letters corresponded with those on a stove door. Neither the child nor his parents was able to explain the branding of the initials on his thigh, but the physician said he must have leaned against the hot stove.

HEARD WHILE SILENT

Speakers Talk—Voices Are Broadcast Later Through Use of Pallophotophone

Senator Phil E. Buster is addressing the radio audience of WGT, Schenectady, N. Y., on the evils of delaying important legislation by prolonging debate.

At the same time Senator Buster is talking quietly in his easy chair at home, with never a thought on this speech or the thousands who are listening to it. He happened to have made his address two or three weeks ago into a curious instrument which the operator called a pallophotophone. But to those who are listening, and to many who know the senator, the speech comes to them just as though it was spoken directly and in the same room.

Senator Buster is in Washington. But his speech is being broadcasted from Schenectady.

This double paradox of his speaking and his absence from the source of his speech becomes possible through use of the pallophotophone. Charles A. Honie of the General Electric laboratories perfected it.

Master Record Made

Besides accomplishing this feat, the pallophotophone broadcasts the voice of the speaker in clearer tones than has ever been sent by radio. It produces what may be termed a "master record" of a series of sounds which may be broadcasted from it at any later time or occasion desired.

As the speaker talks into the machine, his voice causes a diaphragm to vibrate. To this is attached a tiny mirror, smaller than a pinhead. Vibration of the diaphragm causes the mirror to flicker, reflecting its oscillating beam of light upon a moving photographic film.

This is how the human voice is recorded as on a movie film, with its various shades of tone and speech. When that is done, the speaker may forget about his part. The rest remains for the broadcasting operator.

Speech Is Reproduced
At the broadcasting station, the pallophotophone is set up before a highly sensitive microphone transmitter, where it repeats the speech spoken into it.

In reproducing, the film is passed before a strong ray of light and the zig-zag sound waves photographed on it create electric waves which pass through an arrangement of vacuum tubes and produce the original sounds spoken into the machine.

The principle employed by this instrument is now being adapted to movie broadcasting, whereby both voice and action are recorded and sent out at the same time. This latest de-

THE TEXTILE CRISIS

Hardly had one great textile strike in the mills of New England been declared off when another is under consideration. In this case as formerly, Fall River is the storm center and the leaders are discussing a walk-out to enforce a demand for an increase of 15 per cent. We do not think the demand is at all unreasonable; and now that the manufacturers have agreed to meet the local council representing their own operatives, a settlement is likely to be reached.

But should the conference fail, it would still be a mistake to strike at this juncture. The resources of diplomacy have not yet been exhausted; and for the present, they can be more advantageously employed while the operatives are at work than if they were all idle.

It is true that the textile industries are on the eve of a business boom; and it is but fair to assume that the operatives should have some share of the profits. The cost of living has gone up quite considerably since the republican tariff bill took effect. If we consider only the price of coal and sugar, it will indicate what the working people have to contend with in meeting the increased cost of living. Of course, the mills have also suffered from the shortage in fuel although not nearly so much in proportion as the operatives. There is some ground for the belief that the mills resent the dictation of national organizers and that they would be more inclined to make concessions to committees from their own employees. It may be this idea that has led to a reported contest for control of the situation between the Fall River Textile council and the United Textile Workers of America, of which Thomas F. McMahon is the national president. If there is to be a strike, any lack of harmony would be fatal. But we surmise that the points of difference will be satisfactorily arranged before final action is taken. Fall River is chosen as the battle ground for the settlement of the wage question in the other textile cities of New England and what the mills do there, will probably be followed by those of the other cities.

It is to be regretted that conflicts of this kind are necessary in order to secure an equitable wage agreement between the mills and their employees. The operatives have to fight the battle without assistance. There is no government agency to step in and maintain the status quo until such times as an investigation could show whether the demands of the operatives are such as the mills can afford to grant at this particular time. We have a State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation but its powers are so restricted that it can accomplish but little in maintaining industrial peace. This board cannot interfere unless its services are sought by both sides. In this respect there is great need for a change that would authorize the board to order the suspension of a strike or lock-out until such times as an investigation into the financial condition of the company concerned could be made. Such a law has worked well in Canada and there is no reason why it should not be equally effective in promoting industrial peace on this side of the border.

DANCE HALL ABUSES

Already The Sun has referred to the evidence found in the vicinity of certain dance halls in Lowell, showing that bootleggers are active in connection with some of these places. The arrest of a young man by federal officers, on the charge of illegally possessing a pint of whiskey at a dance, is the first step for the suppression of this evil. The local police have been notified and doubtless the police women have given the matter serious attention.

It is claimed that bootleggers enter the dance halls with bottles of whiskey in their possession and that they endeavor to dispose of their stock to parties with whom they come in contact during the evening. For the purpose of completing the sale and "delivering the goods," they leave the hall, procuring "pass out" checks, which give them the privilege of returning without extra charge. We have reason to believe that a rule providing that persons leaving a dance hall will have to pay full price before returning, would go far to curb this growing evil.

It should be said that the managers of the dance halls are in no way responsible for this invasion of their social functions by the bootleggers.

THE COAL PROFITEERING LAW

In a list of some 931 laws which Frank W. Mondell, former republican floor leader of the house of representatives, proudly credits to the sixty-seventh congress, he enumerates "acts to prevent profiteering in coal and providing a coal fact-finding commission." Mr. Mondell's announcement that the republican congress enacted a bill to curb profiteering in coal will be interesting information to many thousands of people in New York, New England and other sections of the north and east where the departing winter has been one of exceptional severity.

These thousands have had no evidence that a statute designed to protect them against extortionate prices and practices was in existence. They have suffered hardships for want of coal most of the time since November and have paid all the way from $15.00 to $25.00 a ton for coal when it was obtainable on any terms, and have been swindled by receiving state instead of the anthracite for which they were charged so outrageously. But never have they seen any officer of the government, inspector, investigator or prosecutor, intervene to invoke this new law in their behalf. On the contrary, the people of New England were told by President Harding himself that they were afflicted not so much with a shortage of fuel as with a "psychological condition," although he took that statement back and said he had been misled by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Congressman Rogers, even though a loyal republican, felt that it wasn't fair to New England to ship coal to Canada while the people of New England couldn't get coal at any price. The "act to prevent extortion in the sale of fuel" but which didn't prevent anything of the sort and which was never even used to that end, was passed in September, 1922, more than five months after the coal strike began; at a time when the reserve stocks of anthracite had become exhausted, when a shortage for the winter was already inevitable, and when profiteering in the people's direct necessities was rampant.

President Harding made no appeal or recommendation to congress in respect to the coal strike until exactly four months and eighteen days after it started and production of bituminous and anthracite coal had ceased, and not until six weeks after the shopmen's strike, which aggravated the fuel shortage, and crippled most of the railroads of the country. The republican congress dawdled for nearly three weeks after hearing

Wickedness is a wonderfully diligent architect of misery, always accompanied with terror, and commotion, and remorse, and endless perturbation.—Plutarch.

Couldn't Wiggle Out
"That woman is the most awful actress I ever saw," said the mild-mannered man to his neighbor. "That body is my wife," replied the neighbor. "I am wrong," said the m. m. m. "She is a good actress struggling with a rotten play. I wonder what fool wrote her the script." "The author," said the neighbor simply.

Cause of Interest
A man who is not usually a reader of fiction was found to be a subscriber in "Winter Comes," and to be reading it. When asked the cause of this obsession, he first looked furtively around the room to assure himself that no one was within earshot. Then he said solemnly: "It interests me because I married a Mabel."

That Settled It
A man had been in a public telephone box for half an hour. He appeared to be very bored, and, though he held the receiver to his ear, he made no attempt to speak. As the crowd outside waited with impatience, he opened the door and asked, politely: "Are you speaking to anybody?" The silent one replied: "Yes, I am speaking to my wife."

She Proved It
"Well," said Mrs. Harpy, "I do not like my husband. Why don't you like them?" "I don't like them," said Mrs. Harpy. "But why, dear?" Mr. Harpy persisted. "I think they are very unusual people." "Unusual? What makes you say that?" "Yes, indeed, they are unusual. Even their neighbors are satisfied with them. They are bringing up their children."

Capital Jokes
U. S. Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky, tells the following as his favorite story: Once on a time I had recommended a young man for appointment under civil service. The bureau chief said at first that while the young man's experience seemed good, his knowledge was not enough. When the man passed the examination at the head of the list, the bureau chief wrote to me that he thought the candidate's ability was adequate, but his experience was insufficient. I wrote him that he reminded me of a judge I knew down south. The judge was very learned and at one time he submitted a written opinion to a lawyer and asked him to sign it. The lawyer replied: "Well, judge, I'd sign it if your opinion is right, but your reasons are wrong, and if your reasons are right, then your opinion is wrong."

"The Kiss"
Before you kissed me, only winds of heaven
Had kissed me, and the tenderness of rain—
Now you have come, how can I care for kisses.
Like theirs again?

I sought the sea, she sent her winds
To meet me.
They surged about me, singing of the South—
I turned my head away to keep still
I heard your kisses upon my mouth.
Your kisses upon my mouth.

And swift, sweet rains of shining April
Weather
Found not my lips where living kisses
Are.
I bowed my head lest they put out my glory.
As rain puts out a star.

I am my love's, and he is mine forever.
Sealed with a seal and safe forevermore—
Think you that I could let
A beggar kiss me?
Where a king stands before?

FORT PIERCE, FLA.,

TO WELCOME HARDING

FORT PIERCE, Fla., March 20.—This thriving little city in the St. Lucie grapefruit district was quivering today in expectation of entertaining President Harding and his vacation party. The presidential party passed by Fort Pierce on the cruise down the Indian river, a day ago, and there was great disappointment for elaborate plans had been made for the entertainment of President and Mrs. Harding and the course of the Fort Pierce golf and country club had been gone over with a careful scrutiny.

The president then conferred the favor of his presence on Vero, a rival town 14 miles north of here, where lives a large Ohio colony. Tentative plans of the president today, however, call for a stop here, and then a resumption of the cruise towards St. Augustine.

Mountain peaks 165 feet high have been discovered under the sea 100 miles off the California coast.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Since the first of January a series of 10 lectures on subjects of great interest to teachers and students and to many others who have any desire to learn, have been given at the Lowell Normal school by educators from various sections of the state. Each lecturer is an expert in his line, and while some of their talks were rather technical, they were all interesting. These lectures are open to the public but as they come at 2:15 in the afternoon there are few who are able to attend. Beginning tomorrow a new series will be started that is of the greatest importance to educators. The subject is "Adapting the curriculum to changing social needs," and the lecturers are all well-known for their school work. It is too bad that the teachers of Lowell, both old and young, cannot hear these lectures as they are just important to them and to the girls who are soon to become teachers. Such lectures would aid them in keeping up to modern methods of teaching and keep them out of the ruts.

It does not seem that it can be two years since James F. Miskella died, but time passes quickly and tomorrow his family will have a requiem mass celebrated in observance of the second anniversary of his death. His mother and devoted sisters have deeply mourned his loss and will ever keep his memory green as a loving son and brother.

I regret the fact that the name of Mrs. Margaret McDonough-Maguire was omitted from the Sun's Monday night concert. The Irish concert in the Memorial hall, for removal of which was in vain, for the popular and talented soloist deserves unsolicited praise for her contributions, "Irish Eyes of Blue," and "Mother Macrae," which she rendered in a highly creditable and artistic manner. Mrs. Maguire, whose sweet soprano voice has thrilled thousands of local music lovers, is a soloist of rare ability and her Sunday night selections, especially "Mother Macrae," only added to her laurels as a soloist.

It is not alone within the fraternal fold that the name of Livingston belonged to his passing will pang of regret. Mr. Livingston had won the respect of all classes of citizens with whom he came in contact during his 42 years of residence here. He was pre-eminently a devoted member of the Scottish clans and in all the colored circles of local music lovers, is a soloist of rare ability and her Sunday night selections, especially "Mother Macrae," only added to her laurels as a soloist.

The entire estate is divided among the children of the deceased, Mary E., Helen, Josephine P., Margaret L., Frederick W., Gertrude A., John J., Edward, Arthur A., William J., Kelly and Catherine A. McWilliams.

The will of Lucile Page, of Lowell, who died Feb. 15, has been filed for probate. Albina Page, his wife, is named as executrix, and sole beneficiary. Estate of $1376.44.

Oscar Desrochers, of Lowell, has been appointed administrator of the estate of his father, Jerome, who died March 7. Estate of $300.

The will of Louise Demout, of Lowell, who died Feb. 15, has been filed for probate. Estate of $3200. Stanislaus Demout, a son, is named as executor. The estate is distributed among 14 children and grandchildren of the deceased.

Hazel Edmundson, of Lowell, petitions that she be appointed administratrix of the estate of her father, Peter, who died Nov. 27, 1922. Estate of $5000.

The will of Elizabeth H. Foye, of Lowell, who died Feb. 17, has been filed for probate. William H. Foye, husband of the deceased, is named as executor. Estate of $5500, all of which is bequeathed to the husband.

Nicholas Christos, of Manchester, and Michael Zoumas, of Lowell, are named as defendants in a $5000 civil action brought by Dionysios A. Sakellaris, of Lowell. The plaintiff claims that the defendants failed to keep the provisions of a lease which they entered into with him and that as a result he has lost $5212.01.

The will of Hannah J. O'Brien, of Lowell, who died Feb. 28, has been filed for probate. No valuation of the estate is given. John H. Condon and Minnie E. Geary, of Lowell, are named as executors. The will provides that all of the personal property of the deceased is to go to equal shares to Minnie E. Geary and Harriet Condon, nieces of the deceased. It is further provided that the residue of the estate is to go to Minnie E. Geary for life, and her death is to go to Harriet Condon, or, if she is dead, to her children.

Dr. Frank R. Brady, returned from travels through Europe with Mrs. Brady, enjoyed his visit to Madeira, Monaco, Gibraltar, Italy, Austria, Switzerland and France. In the latter country the beauty of the American cemeteries particularly impressed the travelers, being better cared for than the burial places of the French soldiers. Conditions in Austria seemed to be greatly improved and the people there were friendly and the people warmly welcomed there. JAPAN WILL NOT CHANGE PRESENT LAWS

TOKIO, Feb. 26.—There is no immediate prospect of the government liberalizing the Japanese land laws, and the suggestion of purchase of perpetual leases held by foreigners in Yokohama does not figure in the government program.

"The matter of further liberalizing the land laws of Japan frequently comes up for discussion among foreign office officials," said Mr. Nagai, head of the commercial department of the foreign office, "and there is a desire in the foreign office to see the existing act further enlarged and promulgated, but many other departments of the government are interested, and the complexities of the question continue to delay it."

"As for the purchase of the perpetual leases, the same policy as is now in force will be continued, namely, the buying in of these leaseholds as they come upon the market."

"It may be that the business depression will offer a good chance to secure more of these leaseholds, and perhaps that is the reason some people appear to believe the government is going to make some special effort in the matter. There is, of course, no idea of attempting the condemnation of the leaseholds."

LITERARY CIRCLE OF C. M. A. C. MEETS

The first in a series of lectures under the auspices of the Literary Circle of the C. M. A. C. took place last evening in the assembly hall of the organization in Pawtucket street. The meeting was opened at 8 o'clock by Leon Laitoneux, president of the circle, and the speaker was William Trotter, a local newspaper man, who was formerly connected with the American City Union, and his topic was "The Future of Our Cities." Mr. Trotter spoke at length on his experiences as a member of the American City Bureau in organizing chambers of commerce in this country and Canada, and told what is being done in other cities to promote the interest of their residents.

BOSTON WOMAN KILLED BY TROLLEY CAR

BOSTON, March 20.—Mrs. Myra M. Van Arsdale, 48, of 109 Peterborough street, Back Bay, died at the Massachusetts General hospital last night from injuries she sustained shortly after 6 o'clock when she was struck by a street car with a trailer attached, as it was leaving the subway at the Public Garden.

The woman was dragged about 35 feet before the motorman of the car, S. G. Chandler, could apply the emergency brakes and bring the heavy cars to a stop.

There were about a score of persons standing on the platform at the time the accident occurred and great excitement prevailed among them, several women almost collapsing.

According to the report made to the police by the motorman, he saw the woman step in front of the car as it emerged from the subway just as it reached the platform at the top of the incline.

The car was a Cypress street-Huntington avenue car outboard and was fairly well filled with passengers. As far as he could observe, the woman did not notice the approach of the car. He did everything possible to avoid the accident, he claimed.

When taken from under the forward trucks of the car, Mrs. Van Arsdale was carried to the rooms of the Women's Educational Union at 264 Boylston street.

Dr. R. H. Miller of 402 Marlborough street was summoned. He ordered her removal to the Massachusetts General hospital and she was taken there in an ambulance of the Back Bay station, dying a short time after arrival.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WOMEN READERS OF THIS PAPER

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmers Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmers & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

"The kind of education that was here say 200 years ago," he said, "was very much simpler than what we have now. The Indian children acquired an education in the natural way. There was not much complexity about it. An Indian boy was not born with the ability to shoot a bow and arrow. He had to learn it. There was no school, no

LUMBERJACK BEATEN AND ROBBED OF $355

BOSTON, March 20.—Nicholas Butler, a Nova Scotia lumberjack who came down from the Maine woods to see the sights of the city was in a hospital in Somerville today recovering from the effects of blows on the head received when two men robbed him of a roll of $355 early today. He told the police he had escorted a waitress in a Charlestown restaurant to her home in Somerville and that while they were talking on the doorstep two men came up and attacked him, knocking him unconscious.

HEARING IN HOUSE OF DAVID SUIT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 20.—Hearing of the suit of John W. Hansell against the Isernhart House of David, a religious colony of Benton Harbor in which Hansell seeks to recover property and pay for his labor valued at $80,000, proceeded in Federal court here today. Judge John E. Sator having declined to consider a motion by the House of David attorney that the case be heard by an ecclesiastical court. Another motion seeking a jury trial was likewise ruled out.

EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW WHAT AUTHORITIES HAVE LEARNED ABOUT PYORRHEA

Much has been said in public print, about the strange disease Pyorrhea. Some of this supposed information has been misleading; a great deal of it has been superficial and most of it only half true.

The result is a distressing ignorance on the part of the public, about the cause, prevention and cure of the disease.

The most important fact to bear in mind is this: Nothing on earth will overcome established Pyorrhea except dental surgery. Have no faith in any promises to the contrary—they are positively and absolutely false. When pus begins to ooze from the gums at the base of the teeth, the disease is firmly established, and the quicker you are in a dental chair, the better.

Can Pyorrhea be prevented without the aid of a dentist, before it becomes established? In most cases—No—for the following reason:

Whenever a tooth is out of alignment, it receives too much pressure, or too little, and will slowly loosen. This loosening irritates the gums and allows bacteria to settle between the gum and the tooth, out of reach of the toothbrush or a proper antiseptic.

The one and only safe thing to do therefore is to have regular dental inspection for the purpose of correcting mechanical imperfections of the teeth.

But, given this regular dental inspection and mechanical corrections, can Pyorrhea be prevented or held in check? Yes, thanks to a recent step forward in the field of antiseptics—it can be.

Pyorrhea is a condition produced by bacterial infection. The human mouth constantly harbors millions of bacteria, seeking an inaccessible retreat in which to colonize and multiply. If the mouth can be thoroughly disinfected by a powerful antiseptic, this colonization and growth of bacteria cannot take place. The problem then is to find an antiseptic powerful enough to really kill bacteria, that can be used freely and safely in the mouth. A perfected form of the famous Dakin Solution, at last places such an antiseptic in the hands of the public. It is called Zonite.

Zonite is non-poisonous and non-irritating. In the presence of saliva it has the germicidal power of pure carbolic acid. It has fifty-six times the power of peroxide. It has a hundred times the power of so-called mild antiseptics that are only pleasant-tasting mouth washes.

In recent tests the saliva of Pyorrhea patients reacting with bacteria was subjected to a solution of one part Zonite to fifty parts water. In one minute all germs were killed.

To sum up, given mechanical correctness of the teeth as outlined above, if Zonite is used daily as a mouth-wash, it will prevent Pyorrhea. This statement is endorsed by leading bacteriologists and dentists. It has been proved by laboratory and dental tests.—Adv.

THROWS DOWN GAUNTLET TO CAPITALISM

LONDON, March 20. (By the Associated Press).—Socialism throws down the gauntlet to capitalism in the house of commons tonight when Philip Snowden, one of the leaders of the independent labor party, puts a motion denouncing "the capitalist system" as a failure and proposing that legislation be directed towards its gradual supersession "by an industrial and social order, based upon public ownership and democratic control of the instruments of production and distribution."

Inasmuch as the motion will not be submitted until 8.15 o'clock and as the discussion will presumably end at 11 under the rule applying to a private member's business, there will not be much time for a solution of the problems involved. It is therefore uncertain whether the motion will go to a division.

FINAL GINNING REPORT OF SEASON

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The American cotton crop of 1922 was placed at 9,761,817 equivalent 500-pound bales by the census bureau today, in its final ginning report of the season. The department of agriculture estimated the crop at 9,564,000 bales last November.

The number of running bales reported by the census bureau was 9,723,048, including 172,182 round bales (counted as half bales); 32,755 bales of American-Egyptian, 5125 bales of sea island, and 5864 bales which ginners estimated would be turned out after the March census.

The 1922 crop by states in equivalent 500-pound bales follows: Alabama, 819,870; Arizona, 41,122; Arkansas, 1,016,428; California, 28,472; Florida, 27,824; Georgia, 735,874; Louisiana, 345,107; Mississippi, 935,787; Missouri, 189,881; North Carolina, 878,997; Oklahoma, 437,003; South Carolina, 617,601; Tennessee, 385,880; Texas, 752; Virginia, 27,011; all other states, 19,614.

The average gross weight of bales of the 1922 crop is 501.7 pounds, compared with 498.5 pounds for 1921, and 505.4 for 1920.

The number of ginneries operated for the 1922 crop was 15,418 compared with 16,192 for the 1921 crop.

WOMEN RAISED RUCTIONS FOR MAYOR OF NEWPORT IN SALEM STREET

In the district court this morning, Rita LeCourt of Boston, who was arrested last night with Helen M. McGowan on a charge of drunkenness, was ordered to furnish bail in the sum of $200 for her appearance in court tomorrow. The case having been continued for sentence. The woman's appearance in court today resulted from a fracas at 243 Salem street last night in which the two women aroused the neighborhood by breaking furniture and tearing down curtains in the room of a lodger at that address. An emergency call was sent to the police station shortly before 11 o'clock, and Sergeant Samuel Higelow and Officer Thomas Sullivan responded.

When they reached the scene, one of the women was found in a front room in the midst of furniture and curtains, and bleeding from cuts self-inflicted by breaking glass. The other woman was also found in the wreckage, and both were sent to the station on charges of drunkenness. The McGowan woman was released this morning.

Both women came to this city yesterday, according to the man who occupied the room. One, he said, is his wife, from whom he has been separated for some time. The other woman was a stranger to him. The police of Boston were notified, and it is for the purpose of awaiting their disposition of the woman, who is wanted in the Hub for defaulting bail, that the local case was continued this morning.

MAN OF 60 REGAINS VIGOR HE HAD AT 35

New Orleans Resident Tells of Wonderful Result Produced by a Recent Scientific Discovery

D. W. Wood, 60, of New Orleans, La., declares he has virtually been made young again by the recently discovered Kortex Compound, which is pronounced superior to "vitamin" and "vitamin" as an invigorator and revitalizer. "It has brought me back to as good, healthy physical condition as I enjoyed at 35," he writes. "I am apparently as supple as at 35." Mr. Wood says he would not take $5000 for what the compound has done for him.

The compound is a simple home treatment in tablet form, absolutely harmless, yet the most powerful invigorator known. Acting directly on lower spinal nerve centers and certain blood vessels, it often produces amazing benefits in 21 to 35 hours. In nation-wide tests, it has won the praises of thousands who suffered from nerve weakness, premature age and lack of vital force. Physicians say it gives "swiftly" satisfaction in cases that defy other treatments. Blindly people pronounce it a real "fountain of youth."

Knowing that this news may seem "too good to be true," the distributors invite any person needing the compound to take a $2 double-strength treatment, enough for ordinary cases, with the understanding that it costs nothing if it fails. If you wish to try this guaranteed invigorator, write in strict confidence to the Medical Laboratories, 421 West 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo. If you prefer you may enclose $2, or simply send your name, without money, and have the postman $2 and postage on delivery. In either case, if you report after one week that the Kortex Compound has not given you satisfaction, the laboratories will return your money immediately. This offer is fully guaranteed, so nobody need hesitate about accepting it.—Adv.

END A HEAD COLD QUICKLY; JUST USE THIS PURE CREAM

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by mucus, catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing, inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear. No more yawning, sneezing, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Your head stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.—Adv.

FIERY, ITCHING ECZEMA HEALED RIGHT UP BY APPLYING SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

Tells How He Did It

Mr. J. A. McGowan, a well-known resident of California, who was called Daddy and Grandpa and around his white hair, and who darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add one ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/2 ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at a very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Adv.

Additional Witnesses Called by State to Testify Against Willis and Others

MARION, Ill., March 20.—(By the Associated Press.) Additional witnesses were called today by the state to build up and strengthen its case against Hugh Willis, member of the state executive board of the Illinois Mine Workers and five others charged with the murder of Antonio Mulcaich of Erie, Pa., during the riots of last June.

Testimony from state witnesses yesterday again connected Willis' name with that of the mob that, according to previous testimony, captured the non-union miners at the Lester strip mine, marched them down a country road unarmed and then shot them down by a barbed wire fence.

Jack Daw in Balloon Land. Chapter 17

Poor Flip had started Mister South Wind when he barked at the horse balloon and Mister South Wind quieted the dog by blowing a big crystal balloon around him. Mr. Moon had brightened up a bit, and Flip looked soared as he gazed out of this circle at Jack. Then Copy told Jack not to worry.

"Mister South Wind is just having a little joke," said Copy. "Your dog has only to bite at the balloon and it will burst." Jack then whistled to his dog and Flip started to run. Instead of coming up to his master, the dog only stood still for, as he ran, the balloon went sailing round and round.

Jack let Flip run for a while and then decided to release him from his balloon prison. He took a pin from his coat and punctured the crystal ball. It burst with a bang and Flip jumped to freedom. Then he started to bark again as little drops of water began falling around him. (Continued.)

FARRAR-TELLEGEN SUIT

Actor Called "Don Juan" of Stage, Seashore and Ghetto—Sensational Testimony

NEW YORK, March 20.—Lou Tellegen, actor, who is being sued for divorce by Geraldine Farrar, former Metropolitan opera star, was described yesterday as a "Don Juan" of the stage, seashore and ghetto, by witnesses testifying for the divorcee. The witnesses named "two strikingly beautiful" young women as co-respondents. One was Miss Ambler, an Australian actress. The other was referred to only as "Miss I," an American actress who played in the same company with Tellegen in 1921. A third woman, said to be known in San Francisco as Bessie Clifford, was named in the complaint, but no mention was made of her yesterday.

Two of the witnesses, W. F. Beers and Louis Malthaner, owners of bungalows in a colony on Long Beach, described "a month of bliss" spent in July, 1921, by Tellegen and Miss Ambler, in a cottage facing the sea.

Mr. Beers said he rented one of his bungalows to Rankin, Tellegen's secretary, but didn't know who he was, and that Rankin and his wife spent several days in the bungalow before Tellegen and the other young woman arrived. Mr. Beers said he didn't pay much attention to the occupants of the shack, but that he knew they lived there together. Several times he saw them on the beach.

Malthaner declared he didn't know who Tellegen was even after he had been told his name, but that he talked and loitered with him on occasion. Tellegen and the girl, he said, made daily excursions on the water in Tellegen's boat. Tellegen always left the shack first and went to the dock and the girl would follow later by another route. Most times they were in bathing suits.

Once Malthaner testified he was helping repair a motor at a neighbor's shack and Tellegen happened by. They invited him to have a bottle of beer. While he was there the girl, with a basket of groceries over her shoulder, came up the path.

"Oh, Lou," she said, according to Malthaner, "this is so heavy I don't think I can carry it any further."

"Oh, yes, babe, you can carry it all right. Run along now. There's some chops in the box. Fix them for supper. I'll be over shortly."

Beers and Malthaner identified a photograph of Tellegen and the girl as the couple who spent the month at the Long Beach resort and departed after Tellegen had received a letter from his wife's lawyers. They said the girl had a broad, affected English accent, pleasing to the ear, and that she was a woman of culture.

Mathaner, incidentally, is a clerk in the offices of the divorcee's counsel.

He testified he didn't know anything about the divorce action until after it was filed.

When Tellegen returned to New York, testimony showed, he was trailed night and day by private detectives. In August, Miss Ambler went to live with friends in a studio apartment on the top floor of a rooming house on West 37th street. Norman Fitzsimmons, private detective, said he followed Tellegen to this house on numerous occasions and that the actor met the girl in the vestibule.

Invariably, he said, they embraced in the shadows and then went for long walks, winding in and out side streets, and often into the ghetto on the lower East Side, where they stopped in Italian restaurants for midnight suppers of spaghetti.

Sometimes the detectives ate spaghetti, too, while waiting for them.

They seemed very much taken with each other, he testified.

After these spaghetti feasts the detective said they would return to the 37th street house and part in the ves-

Adventures of The Twins

"WHAT ARE YOU 'PRAISE' ASKED NANCY

The Twins continued their journey. "Now look at the very bottom," said in Mix-Up Land.

But it seemed silly, as Nancy said, to try to chase a house that kept jumping around so, as Jack Straw's did. Just now it was up on top of a high steepie and kept spinning around when the wind blew, like a weather cock.

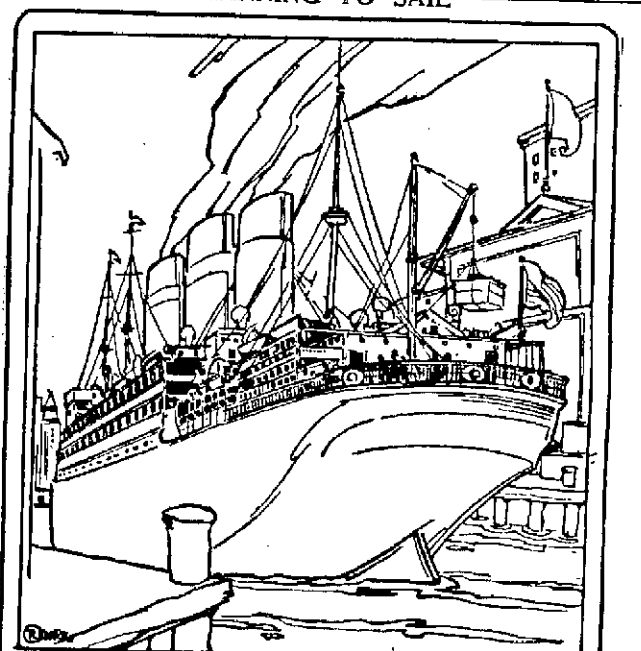

"I should think it would fall to pieces," said Nick, "as it's only made of dominoes stuck together."

"It certainly would," said a voice, "but you see, all four winds keep blowing it at once. That's like four fingers holding a puzzle, it can't fall apart."

"Who is talking?" demanded Nancy. "We can't see anybody. Who are you?" "Look down the deep hole in front of you," answered the voice. "It's a hill that got turned upside down when everything else got turned upside down in Mix-Up Land."

The Twins looked and sure enough, there was the hole.

thru, after a prolonged farewell. Then Tellegen would spend away in a taxi to his suite in the Ritz-Carlton hotel.

In September, after the opening of "Don Juan," with Tellegen in the title role, the actor began dividing his attentions between Miss Ambler and "Miss I," according to Fitzsimmons. Immediately after the performances he would have a taxi and take "Miss I" to her home on Riverside Drive, spend a moment or two with her in the hallway, and then go down town to meet Miss Ambler.

One night in September, Fitzsimmons continued, he followed Tellegen and "Miss I" to a bench overlooking the river in a dark place on Riverside Drive.

At this point the referee asked newspapermen to depart.

The last witness for the plaintiff was Joseph Brandt, a negro, elevator and switchboard operator at the house in which "Miss I" rented an apartment.

Brandt said he had seen Tellegen frequently with "Miss I." He appeared with her at the apartment house most of the time, and at first didn't go upstairs. Later he spent hours at a time in the young woman's rooms, Brandt said, and one Saturday stayed all night.

The plaintiff's case was closed with Brandt's testimony.

Referee Mahony ordered a postponement in order to give Arthur E.

ON COTTON INDUSTRIES DRIVEN OUT AT MIDNIGHT

"Lowell—An Industrial Dream Come True," Title of Interesting Book

"Lowell—An Industrial Dream Come True" is the title of an interesting and good-sized volume just issued from the pen of J. C. Meserve, secretary of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, copies of which have been received in this city by textile executives and digested with considerable real pleasure and profit.

Mr. Meserve's great admiration for Francis Cabot Lowell has evidently prevailed all through the book, and perhaps more particularly in the chapters relating to the birth and growth of the cotton textile industry in Lowell.

Few readers of the Meserve volume that contains much that is really new in a historical and biographical way, can peruse the various chapters without a feeling of pride in the remarkable era of cotton manufacturing, in which we live, and in the comparatively short period in which this great achievement was accomplished.

In the space of 126 pages, Mr. Meserve tells an important story. He divides the progress in cotton manufacturing in New England into three periods: 1. The years prior to 1775, when work was done by hand and in the homes; 2. The years between 1775 and 1814, during which time machinery was introduced and there occurred the transition from work at home, to segregation into separate industrial buildings; 3. The growth of power-driven machinery and the development of the "mill city."

About 1645, the general court of Massachusetts had made spinning compulsory on the part of each family. Later, in 1763, indicating the extent to which manufacture of cotton in New England was being encouraged, Mr. Meserve quotes an advertisement:

"The senior class of 1763 scholars at the University of Cambridge have unanimously agreed to take their degrees next commencement dressed altogether in the manufactures of this country."

The English people had used all of their energies to prevent the outside world, and the American colonies in particular, from learning the secrets regarding the manufacture of cotton machinery that had just been developed. British laws forbade the exportation of cotton machinery and the emigration of mechanics and manufacturers.

Attempts to duplicate English machinery, from memory or otherwise, were unsuccessful, until the arrival of Samuel Slater. The importance of Mr. Slater's work is indicated in a statement that goods, which cost 40 to 50 cents a yard were sold at 9 and 10 cents a yard, after the new machinery had been in operation in this country a few years.

The spinning Jenny had made big strides in the production of spinning—so much so that the spinning was really for the first time a household industry. It was not until Francis Cabot Lowell had constructed from memory, a machine containing the improvements of the Cartwright automatic loom, that the industry really made its greatest step toward production. The important feature of the new loom was that it stopped when a thread broke.

Mr. Lowell, for whom the present city of Lowell was named, was then located in the plant of the Waltham company (now the Boston Manufacturing company). He was the first man to put the weaving and spinning together under one roof—entirely automatic. Hitherto spinning and weaving had been hand looms. His brother-in-law, Patrick Tracy Jackson, was associated with him in the new mill enterprise.

Mr. Meserve's book also stresses the welfare work in behalf of operatives, for which Mr. Lowell was responsible. He makes it clear that these were the first efforts of their kind, establishing boarding houses under the charge of carefully selected matrons—religious instruction, free schools for the children of the employees, support of churches for the benefit of the operatives.

Nathan Appleton might be called the first selling agent. All of the methods of operating a mill as they are in existence today, were instituted here—introduction of power machinery, process of manufacture in one building, mill organization and welfare work (at the Waltham company), summarizes Mr. Meserve. "All these the industry owes to the foresight and ability of Francis Cabot Lowell. It is most fitting that in the city which bears his name, his ideas should have been developed."

The origin of the city of Lowell is outlined, starting with the construction of the Merrimack company. Considerable attention is given to the various interesting details of the mill operation as performed at Lowell. About 1832, the character of the operatives commenced to change. "Foreigners" started to come. The higher cost of living, at this time, was responsible for the abandonment of the mill boarding houses. A contributing factor in this connection was the tendency of the so-called foreigners to segregate by nationalities.

Calico printing in America traces back to the Merrimack Manufacturing company, where the English operatives had been brought, especially for this purpose. Labor conditions and welfare work in Lowell are also described in the Meserve publication. At the time the Waltham company was built, the operatives worked about 50 hours a week. For years later, there were efforts to bring about a 10-hour day. Mills claimed that costs would not permit this. The Atlantic mills of Lawrence were the first to adopt a 10-hour day, at the same time taking precautionary measures in the way of "speeding up" machinery, to overcome the shorter hours.

A chapter in the Meserve historical volume is also devoted to "The Rise of Labor Union—Union Disturbances in Lowell." There are many other interesting facts, comparing wages and the costs of living.

The book had its actual growth out of a paper read by Mr. Meserve at the last meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at Atlantic City. The paper was originally called: "The Development of a Mill City."

Fire in East Merrimack Street—Policemen Rescue Woman and Children

Flames originating in paper stuffed in open sheathing of an old ceiling, causing spontaneous combustion, firemen believe, threatened to destroy a section of ancient tenements and a series of first-floor small stores, endangering also the lives of three families including six children. In the block of structures located on East Merrimack street directly opposite Columbus park, Immaculate Conception church, shortly before midnight last night.

Policemen from the central station rescued three children and one woman, assisting them down the smoke-filled narrow stairways from second and third-floor tenements to the street. The badly frightened families, thinly clad and seeking only safety, were finally routed up by the firemen and police and taken to the Memorial Auditorium where they were cared for by Night Watchman John W. Cassin the remainder of the night.

The firemen had a hot fight to locate the seat of the midnight blaze, but promptly checked it after the blaze had been discovered in the ceiling and ceiling. The fire broke through the partitions. Before the flames were quenched, however, fire ate downward into the fruit store of John A. Saba on the street floor, in the side and rear, and did considerable damage.

The second floor tenement where the fire broke out, was also damaged to a certain extent, although the work of the firemen was excellent in every way and headed off any chances the fire might have had to sweep upward through the walls of the old tenements and reach the attic and roof.

Among the earliest at the fire after the sounding of Box 5 at 11:58 p. m., were Patrolmen Blinnery, Dan Murphy and Kivlin, who assisted in removing several children down the stairways that filled early with heavy smoke from the burning sidewalk partitions. The families were removed safely before the firemen could assist in the work, thanks to the prompt appearance of the bluecoats in response to the fire alarm.

The families who were driven from the bedrooms half-clad, and awakened from sound sleep, included those of Jan Romil, Mrs. Marya Polaski and Mrs. Nastasia Ukyrn. Polish-speaking people, with several children. All were taken to the Auditorium, the general offices there being opened for the rescued families' comfort. Food and hot drinks were provided.

One of the women rescued is employed in a Lawrence mill and is at home only on week-ends. The others are employed daily in local textile plants. None of them can talk very good English, and although badly frightened by the midnight fire, were able to go to their mill duties this morning at the usual time. The children attend the local schools.

The damaged building containing a chain of stores and tenements is the property of Israel Levine, tailor, at No. 147 East Merrimack street. He says he carries a total of $5000 on the property. He estimates his loss as not very large and praised the work of the firemen for their efficient handling of the blaze, which he said was the best he had ever seen.

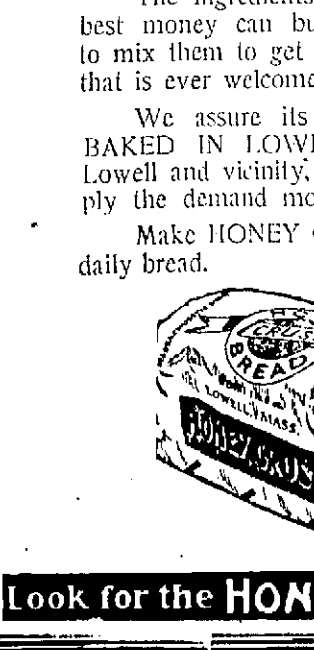

Among those sustaining damage on the street floor was the fruit and candy store occupied by Saba at 133 East Merrimack street. Although flames ate their way downward through partitions, the chief losses will be from smoke and water, broken doors and windows and torn-out walls where the heart of the fire was located by the firemen and promptly quenched.

The Liberty Malt and Hop Co., at 143 East Merrimack street, sustained some water and smoke damage. The all-out signal was sounded on the bell alarm at 12:17 a. m.

GIRL TAKES POISON, HER COMPANION HELD

BOSTON, March 20.—Sylvia Henderson, the 16-year-old Roxbury girl, who was taken to the city hospital last night, after swallowing poison at a hotel, was still in a critical condition today. Fred South was detained by the police as a suspicious person today in connection with the case. The girl and a man who accompanied her to the hotel, registered as Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Harrison of Portland, Me. After being taken to the hospital the girl told the police that she had quarreled with her mother, and also with her lover.

Complete Story of Alleged Communist Party Convention in August

Witness Tells of Issuance of Meeting Call, the Session and Raid

ST. JOSEPH, March 20. (By the Associated Press.)—A full story of the alleged communist party convention near here last August, from the issuance of the meeting call until the raid on it directed by Berrien county officials as told by a department of justice agent, was contained today in the unfinished record of the trial of William Z. Foster of Chicago, for criminal syndicalism.

The government agent, arrested in the raid only to disappear "mysteriously" when the others caught by the officials were arraigned, told the story from the witness stand, yesterday, identifying himself as K-97 in government secret service files; as Ashworth to the alleged communists and as Day to the delegates at the convention. He is Francis Morrow of Camden, N. J.

After identifying numerous documents seized by the officials, Morrow told of his activities with the communist party, actions that brought him into the favor of the organization and caused him to be selected as a delegate to the convention.

His testimony brought out the painstaking efforts to keep the meeting place secret. Only a chosen few were told the convention site and those with that knowledge met others from various towns and directed them to Bridge man near the scene of the gathering in the dunes.

All delegates were given an alias. Morrow testified. He was designated as Day, while Foster, the defendant, was known as "Comrade Borden."

CAMERA WILL REVEAL COTTON SECRETS

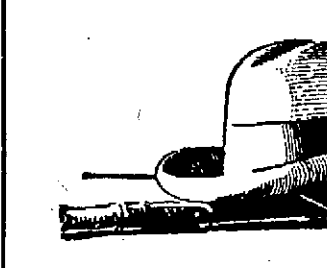

You will be able to speak in an intelligent way upon cotton manufacturing if you attend the meeting which will be held this evening in Liberty hall, when Mr. Thayer Francis of the Parks-Cramer Co. of Fitchburg, Mass., will tell about the part that humidity has in making work run better. In addition to Mr. Francis' talk, and you are given assurance in advance, that there is no one better qualified than Mr. Francis to handle the particular topic which has been assigned to him, a film, "Thirsty Cotton," will be shown.

This picture is of a high educational character and in it the many processes through which cotton proceeds to become the finished article from its raw removal condition at the mills, are depicted. While the four meetings which have passed have been unusual in type and of a kind not heretofore conducted in this city, this evening's and the two forthcoming meetings which will be held respectively upon the evenings of April 3 and 17 will have character, interest all their own and much valuable information will be had by those attending them. The meetings are open to the public and you are cordially invited to attend.

FASCISTI OF NORTH AMERICA

Branch of Fascisti of Italy Now Has 20,000 Members in This Hemisphere

U. Menicucci in Charge Here—Acts as "Political Secretary"

NEW YORK, March 20.—A branch of the Fascisti of Italy, called the Fascisti of North America, was founded in this country two years ago, and now has 20,000 members in branches in many of the leading cities of the United States and Canada, the New York Herald says today.

Temporarily, the organization in this hemisphere is said to be under the direction of U. Menicucci, who acts as "political secretary." Officers of the New York headquarters of the American organization are to be elected at a meeting here Saturday night, the sequel to one held last Saturday night at which headquarters was dedicated, the paper says.

While in Italy the Fascisti was of such dominant political force that it swept into the premiership its leader, Mussolini, no such end is sought in this country, the Herald quotes Signor Menicucci as saying. Besides promoting accord between citizens of Italy and the United States, he said, the Fascisti here aim to see that Italians understand the duties of Italian citizenship and obey the laws of the country in which they live. It will keep out of American politics, he added.

Branches are said to have been established in Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Montreal, Buffalo, Schenectady, Waterville, Conn., Kansas City, Detroit, Pueblo, Colo., Columbus and Niles, Ohio, and Bethlehem, Pa.

The Fascisti in the United States will stand principally for this order, said Signor Menicucci: "Unity of Italian veterans of the American and Italian armies; help for disabled veterans; aid for immigrants; prevention of unemployment and Americanization."

Night schools will be set up first in New York and then elsewhere by the various locals, he added.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING

Two More Lowell Industries Report Great Activities in Production

Two more Lowell industries report healthy activities in the production of necessities of life in lines of wearing apparel.

Wachusett mills report a surplus of $4,474 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1922, which compares with a deficit profit and loss for the previous year of $2,968, according to the company's annual report just made public.

Merchandise inventories are carried on the company's balance sheet at $204,348 as against $105,127 in 1921. This increase, together with other increases in the Lowell concern's quick assets, brings the total current assets to almost double those of the previous year.

Considerable increases are noted in current liabilities, but the company reports that it has been able to set aside a tax reserve of $1,800. The company lists its good will at $60,000. The capital stock is $300,000, accounts payable $156,127, notes payable $26,250, accrued liabilities $2,754.

Operations at the Wachusett plant on Middlesex street have been flourishing for sometime past. Recently night work was decided upon, advertisements being inserted in various New England papers for good workers on woollens. It has been stated that the Wachusett's business has expanded in a most satisfactory way during the past few months.

Shaw Stocking company reports a surplus of $33,865 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1922, according to the company's balance sheet published yesterday in a financial record journal as follows:—

Assets—Real estate, $161,444; machinery, $280,742; furniture, fixtures and tools, $150,000; merchandise, $455,675; accounts receivable, $214,002; cash, $36,485; insurance, prepaid, $10,207; interest prepaid, $3,800; trademarks, $10,000; total, $1,119,856.

Liabilities: Capital stock, $450,000; accounts payable, $47,491; notes payable, $367,500; surplus, $334,865; total, $1,199,856.

SACCO IS CHEERFUL

Slayer Very Comfortable 'Today After Seven Hours' Sleep in Hospital

BOSTON, March 20.—Nicola Sacco, convicted murderer under observation at the Psychopathic hospital by court order as a result of his hunger strike at the Boston jail, was very comfortable today after seven hours sleep, hospital officials said. He was rather stronger and the physicians considered that all danger of serious effects from his prolonged fast had passed. Temperature, pulse and respiration, were normal. He appeared cheerful and ate a breakfast of cream toast, chicken soup, crackers and cocoa.

In this country, the Herald quotes Signor Menicucci as saying. Besides promoting accord between citizens of Italy and the United States, he said, the Fascisti here aim to see that Italians understand the duties of Italian citizenship and obey the laws of the country in which they live. It will keep out of American politics, he added.

Branches are said to have been established in Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Montreal, Buffalo, Schenectady, Waterville, Conn., Kansas City, Detroit, Pueblo, Colo., Columbus and Niles, Ohio, and Bethlehem, Pa.

The Fascisti in the United States will stand principally for this order, said Signor Menicucci: "Unity of Italian veterans of the American and Italian armies; help for disabled veterans; aid for immigrants; prevention of unemployment and Americanization."

Night schools will be set up first in New York and then elsewhere by the various locals, he added.

AUDITORIUM CUSTODIAN

Action Upon Election of Permanent Custodian Again Deferred by Trustees

Action upon the election of a permanent custodian for the Memorial Auditorium again was deferred last evening by the board of trustees pending such a time as the civil service commission passes upon certain questions of unfitness made by Mayor John J. Donovan against Collin H. MacKenzie, one of three eligibles for the position and at present, temporary, custodian and building manager.

At the meeting of the trustees one week ago the mayor questioned Mr. MacKenzie relative to certain connections and conversation alleged to have taken place between him and the election commission in the fall of last year when signatures to the Plan B charter petition were being collected and last night the mayor declared he was prepared to prove these charges, but the other trustees felt it a matter that promptly should be placed before the civil service commission, and it was so decided.

Present at the meeting were Messrs. McOsker, Draden, Maguire and Allard of the election commission, City Solicitor Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan, Edward J. Tierney, representing Mr. MacKenzie, former Mayor George H. Brown and his son, Edward, Joseph A. Cloutier, Thomas P. Boker, strenuously objected to having witnesses heard in an attempt to substantiate the mayor's charges, declared the mayor's verbal statements were a reflection upon Mr. MacKenzie's character and should be heard and reviewed by the civil service commission. Major Fred A. Estee said he could not understand why the mayor's charges had not been made at an earlier date, or before the matter had reached its present stage and Mr. Boker spoke along the same line. "It is a cold business proposition with me," declared Major Estee, "and politics doesn't enter into it in any way."

The mayor replied that politics had not influenced him in the matter, either, and added that he simply was attempting to elect a man from the top of the eligible list. It finally was decided to lay the matter on the table until such a time as it may be taken before the civil service commission, where witnesses would be obliged to testify under oath. This was agreeable to Mayor Donovan, who, in fact, presented the motion. An amendment offered by Mr. Brouger, authorized the solicitor to request an extension of time on the probation of the election commission, and eligible list so that they will not forfeit their rights for appointment.

CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

John O'Loughlin's appearance in the district court this morning, on a charge of drunkenness, resulted in the revocation of a former suspended sentence of two months to the house of correction. The arresting officer testified that the man was taken from his cell in an intoxicated condition last night, after he had threatened his family with threats to his life and property. Frank A. Collins and George H. Brouger, also violated their probationary period and were sentenced to the house of correction for four and three months, respectively, for drunkenness. Sissau Waldron was also found guilty of drunkenness and received a one month's sentence to the house of correction.

Jacob Miller, who sometimes pleaded not guilty to a charge of larceny, changed his plea to guilty this morning and the case was placed on the civil settlement having been made.

William C. Sullivan pleaded guilty to the non-support of his wife and received a sentence of five months to the house of correction, suspended for one year.

Andrew Mena, arrested by the police for illegal keeping and sale, was granted a continuance until March 30.

For being drunk and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Frank Kneafsey was allowed a continuance until April 20.
